Special Probe Due to Start Here Monday GOP Is Holding Out for 4-Man Crime Body

Passage Is Aim Prior To Finish Plan, Pay Measure Face Ave's Veto

ALBANY (AP)—The 1958 Legislature drew to a close today with Gov. Harriman and the Republicans battling furiously over crime commission plans and workmen's compensation benefits.

The dash toward adjournment also was marked by a dramatic revolt of Assembly Republicans, who teamed with disgruntled Democrats to kill the GOP leaders' court reform plan.

Await Assembly Action

Closing-day action centered in the Assembly. The GOP was set to force final passage of its bills to set up a four-man commission to combat crime and to raise from $36 to $45 top weekly compensation benefits for injured workers. Veto threats hung over both measures.

The Democratic governor sent the Legislature an eleven-hour warning yesterday that the Republican crime commission plan was "unacceptable to me."

He wants a five-member unit, which he said would be "hard-hitting and effective." A four-man commission would be strangled by stalemates, Harriman argued.

Despite the warning, GOP leaders said they would pass their bill.

May Recall Lawmakers

Harriman said earlier this week he might recall the Legislature into special session this spring if the GOP did not back down. Senate Republicans slammed their new compensation bill through their house yesterday over angry Democratic protests. Harriman wants benefits increased. But he vetoed two Republican measures last year primarily because of organized labor's protests against a rider that would have broadened court review of awards.

It would have allowed the courts to review each case on the facts. Now they are limited to review on points of law.

Court Plan Buried

The new version drops this clause. It substitutes, however, a provision that would require the Workmen's Compensation Board to issue statements with its decisions that they are based on "the fair weight of evidence."

The court reform plan, a revised version of the program advanced by the Tweed Commission, was buried under a 90-54 vote in the Assembly. It had been passed by the Senate.

All 51 Democrats on hand and 43 Republicans cast the "no" votes after the measure came under fiery attack.

The plan was in the form of a proposed amendment to the state constitution. Its defeat meant no court reform proposal could be put into effect until 1962, unless action were taken later this year at a special session.

Would Merge Courts

The plan would consolidate New York City's many courts, merge the surrogates into other courts (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

Spring Freshets Are Threat From Snow on Ground

High water content in the snow now on the ground poses a "more than usual" threat of spring freshets in the Hudson and Mohawk river valleys, the United States Department of Commerce Weather Bureau reports.

With three to four feet of snow still in the woods, there is an estimated six inches of water in the present snow accumulation. Soil moisture is high which makes up for a greater run-off in the event of extremely warm weather or a heavy rainfall.

Locally, streams are not unusually high for this time of the year but are expected to rise in the event of warm weather or a warm rain.

The Ashokan reservoir, which controls to a great extent the run-off in the Esopus Valley, is down and the lower basin will take a considerable amount of the run-off.

The Ulster County Sheriff's Department is kept constantly in touch with the condition of streams in this locality and is prepared to give warning to residents along the streams in the event of any threat of floods. Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg reports.

Button Not Specific Weidenborner Choice

Mayor Edwin F. Radel, noting that several applicants for the post of police chief are being considered, said today that Chief A. K. Button, of Waverly, is among them, but, he added, the application was not a specific recommendation of Lt. Kenneth E. Weidenborner, of the state police, who is here to assist in revamping the administrative phase of the police department.

Among those being considered is a man, who has had many years of experience in New York City's detective department.

Mentioned by Press

Chief Button's name was mentioned in a press report at Bling-hamton, and in another by the Associated Press.

Queried today as to the number of applicants, Mayor Radel gave no definite reply, but said only that "several" are being considered for the post which pays $6,300 a year.

Earlier in the month the mayor said an appointment could be made at any time, but he also then indicated that no decision will be made until the fullest possible consideration is given the background and qualifications of each applicant.

Files On His Own

Chief Button's application was filed on his own, the mayor said. He has relatives in the area and has been known to visit here occasionally.

Waverly is a community of slightly more than 6,000 population. It is near the Pennsylvania border, several miles southeast of Elmira.

The New York man, known to be among those under consideration for the post, has had many years of experience in the administrative phase of police work, mostly in midtown Manhattan.

Job to Better Force

Mayor Radel, in correcting reports indicating that Lt. Weidenborner was back of the Chief Button application, as he had done several days ago, emphasized that the latter's chief function here is to assist in betterment of the administrative phase of the department. He has nothing to do with personnel.

The official notice of Lt. Weidenborner's assignment here said he "will remain with us for the time required to affect the necessary changes in the physical setup of the police headquarters for modern, efficient operation of the department."

Decision of the selection of a chief to succeed Chief Raymond VanBuren, who is due to retire May 31, is expected to be made some time in advance of that date.

The Associated Press report mentioning Button as an applicant for the post said his name was proposed for consideration by friends in this area.

Button, 44, has been police chief in Waverly since May 1953. He is a native of New Berlin, Che-

Reply Due in 10 Days on Reuter

DELHI (AP)—Delaware County's special district attorney has 10 days to reply to a brief submitted by Arthur L. Reuter, who is seeking to quash a subpoena ordering him to testify before a grand jury.

Reuter, the state's acting investigation commissioner, appeared in county court yesterday to submit a brief in which he argued that he was prohibited by state law from testifying about his investigation of alleged kickbacks in the county until he reported to the governor.

Richard H. Farley, the county's special district attorney, argued that the subpoena should be honored. He asked County Judge Walter L. Terry for 10 days to reply to Reuter's brief.

Terry also gave Reuter five days for a reply to Farley's brief.

Todd's Death Puts Somber Note on Filmdom Awards

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's Oscar night in Hollywood tonight and the movie capital will roll out its glamor for the award-conferring occasion.

But the somber note of tragedy—death of producer Mike Todd in an airplane crash Saturday—hangs over the festivities.

Todd's widow, Elizabeth Taylor, is one of the major contenders for the best actress award.

Liz Doesn't Care

"I don't care whether I win or not," she said last night while flying home from her husband's funeral in Chicago. "I only care what Mike would have thought if I had won."

Seventy of Hollywood's biggest names will appear on the NBC telecast of the award proceedings staged by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Clark Gable and Mae West, among others, will be making their television debuts.

Miss Taylor has long been a top favorite in the actress division because of her performance in "Raintree County." Her strongest competition will come from Deborah Kerr (Heaven Knows, Mr. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)

Atom Test Observers Welcomed

Russia Likely to Get Pacific Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he is asking the United Nations to send foreign observers—probably Russian as well as free world—to U.S. atomic tests scheduled for the Pacific this summer.

Eisenhower made the announcement at a news conference. He read a statement which said:

"In line with what I said to the press on July 3, 1957, the United States will demonstrate the progress our scientists are achieving in reducing radioactive fallout from nuclear explosions."

"To this end, for the first time at any test, we are planning to invite the United Nations to select a group of qualified scientific observers to witness at the Pacific proving ground this summer a large nuclear explosion in which radioactive fallout will be drastically reduced."

H-Bomb Indicated

This would indicate planned detonation of a hydrogen bomb since it is only with the H-bomb that fallout can be materially reduced.

Asked whether the U. N. delegation would include representatives from Russia and other Communist countries, Eisenhower replied that he hopes the U. N. will designate the members of its scientific committee on the effects of radiation to attend the Pacific tests.

He noted that member nations of that committee include Russia and Czechoslovakia in the Communist bloc, as well as the United States, United Kingdom and Canada. There are 15 member nations. The other 10 are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Egypt, France, India, Japan, Mexico and Sweden.

Open to Correspondents

It was not clear from Eisenhower's announcement whether foreign observers would be limited to one specific test—the large nuclear explosion which the President mentioned in his statement.

Eisenhower also said the United States will invite "as we have on occasions in the past" a representative group of U. S. and foreign news media correspondents.

At his first news conference in three weeks, Eisenhower also dealt with these other matters:

Recession—The President said the bottom of the business slump certainly is close, or possibly even now has been reached.

He expressed the opinion that we are going through the worst of it right now.

Eisenhower again declined to speculate as to the timing of any possible anti-recession tax cut. But he said the administration is not going to be stampeded into a tax reduction.

Outer Space—Eisenhower volunteered that the White House is planning to make public a document on the future in outer space, prepared by his scientific advisory committee.

He called it one of the most interesting and fascinating documents he has ever seen, and said (Continued on Page 8, Col. 7)

4 of 5 Panel Speakers Are for Consolidation

The proposed Greater Kingston Area Consolidation was discussed with considerable thoroughness before an audience of some 300 persons last night by a panel representing five local groups:

George Yerry, president of the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters; Robert Sabin, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Raymond E. Gilkey, president of the Kingston Parent-Teachers Association Council; Eugene DeDea, chairman of the education committee of the Kingston Civic Association, and Robert Tucker, a teacher in Kingston High School.

Robert Herzog, president of the Kingston Board of Education, served as moderator.

Four of the five panel members spoke wholeheartedly in favor of the proposed consolidation with 25 outlying school districts. The question will be submitted to an "informal" poll of voters next Wednesday, April 2.

Speaking in opposition to consolidation was DeDea.

Meeting Over 2 Hours

The meeting, which lasted more than two hours, ran smoothly, with considerable audience participation.

Sabin said the Chamber of Commerce, which has endorsed consolidation, feels that education is a part of area planning and that it was "strongly advisable" to vote yes April 2.

He asked, "What is the alternative to consolidation?" He pointed out that "anybody can be critical" but what do they offer in its stead, what is a "positive solution?"

What is Solution?

Sabin said he feels the city faces "consolidation or isolation." He asked, "Can somebody in the same breath that they criticize tell us what to do? What do the critics wish you to do?"

He said that all he is looking for is the answer if the vote should be no.

Mrs. Gilkey, who for the past several years has served as president of the P-TA Council, spoke from the parent's standpoint, pointing out that parents, in general, place the child at the center of the consolidation question.

Put Faith in Board

They have put faith in education authorities, who favor consolidation, rather than accepting isolation with the formation of two separate school systems, higher taxes, etc.

Kingston parents feel closely responsible as a link between educators and the public, she said.

Mrs. Gilkey introduced Kerin (Continued on Page 8, Col. 5)

50 Businessmen Are Elated Over School Program

Fifty local businessmen who visited Kingston city schools Tuesday expressed gratification over the program they observed.

Sponsored by the education committee of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, the program was designed to acquaint businessmen "with the multi-million dollar business conducted by the local Board of Education."

Discuss School System

The entire group, including several members of the board and principals of the 10 public schools, met in the Kingston High School auditorium.

Stephen Hyatt, chairman of the school committee, presided and various phases of the school system were discussed by Robert H. Herzog, president of the Board of Education; Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of schools; James D. Hood, chairman of the Chamber's education committee; Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, director (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

$150,000 Is Asked For Staff Tompkins Not New In Crime Hunting

Former State Sen. Bernard Tompkins plans to start work here next Monday on his assignment to investigate kickbacks on official purchases in Ulster County.

Tompkins, who announced the starting date last night in Albany, said he had "no set quota" for the size of his probe staff. He said it will include lawyers, accountants, investigators and clerical help.

$150,000 Asked

"Because of the nature of the crimes alleged, I expect staff emphasis to be on accountants," he added.

The rules committee of the Assembly introduced at Albany a bill to appropriate $150,000 for the investigation.

Tompkins' experience in the prosecution of fiscal crimes has been extensive.

Prosecuted Mortgage Swindle

He was named a special assistant to Attorney General Robert Jackson during the Democratic Roosevelt administration to prosecute the mortgage guarantee swindle in New York City.

One of the defendants against whom he obtained a conviction was the New York Title and Mortgage Co., which had $720,000 outstanding, it was reported.

Tompkins served as either an assistant U. S. attorney or special assistant attorney general from 1933 until 1940 when he entered private practice.

To Be Non-Partisan

While various charges of "politics" have been made during the current Reuter investigation in Ulster County, Tompkins said he wanted to "set the record straight. My investigation is not going to be bi-partisan. It is going to be non-partisan."

Tompkins said he had received the assurance of both Gov. Harriman and Attorney General Lefkowitz "that no political influence will be allowed to be brought to bear during my tenure in Ulster County. I am going to Kingston to do as conscientious and efficient job as I know how."

Has Free Hand

Questioned on recent legislative criticism of the Ulster-Hudson Valley probe, Tompkins said: "I am not responsible to the leaders of the Legislature, but to the attorney general, who has guaranteed me a free hand in my investigation."

Tompkins said that he would confer with Reuter and St. John as soon as possible. Gov. Harriman has assured him that Reuter (Continued on Page 8, Col. 8)

Bulganin May Be Replaced Soon as Premier of Soviet

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Speculation is mounting in Western circles that a new premier may be installed in Nikolai Bulganin's chair when the Soviet Union's new Parliament convenes tomorrow in Moscow.

Rumors have been cropping up for more than a year that the bearded traveling companion of Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev was on the way out. Some diplomats reason that a session of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) would be a logical place to open the trapdoor if the 62-year-old veteran Bolshevik has been marked to go.

If Bulganin is dropped, his successor may be Alexei I. Kirichenko, 50-year-old former first secretary of the Ukraine Communist Party and long one of Khrushchev's top aides.

Kirichenko, a full member of the party's ruling presidium, rose to the top echelon last December when Khrushchev made him a member of the party central committee's secretariat.

Speculation that a shakeup was in the wind heightened Tuesday night when Moscow Radio broadcast a list of Soviet officials attending a dinner for U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Bulganin was not mentioned. The Kremlin itself has given no hint of any shakeup. When Moscow newsmen asked Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan whether any changes would be announced at the Parliament session, he merely (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)

Albany Bills Call for Voter's Action On $200 Million Borrowing for Homes

ALBANY (AP)—Bills moving in the Legislature call for voter action next November on 200 million dollars in state borrowing for housing.

The program calls for facilities for middle and low-income groups and the aged and for extensive slum clearance.

The Assembly gave final legislative approval yesterday to a proposed 100-million-dollar bond issue for middle-income housing. The same chamber passed and sent to the Senate a measure calling for a second 100-million-dollar issue for slum clearance and for housing for low-income families and for the aged.

Democrats and Republicans joined to put the measures through over opposition of other GOP members, who held that the programs meant further state encroachment in housing and that the field should be left to private enterprise.

Supporters of the measures answered that the projects would be built by private enterprise and the money advanced for the work repaid to the state.

There were these other developments yesterday in the Legislature:

Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck made a rare speaking appearance to spearhead an attack that killed a new attempt by fellow Republicans to set a year's residence requirement for home-relief welfare assistance.

The Assembly voted to clamp a ceiling of $7 interest per $100 on the balance due on insurance charges for automobile loans. The Senate approved the measure previously.

A plan for the state's first, full-scale educational television project, to cost $369,900 in the first year, won Assembly endorsement and went to Gov. Harriman, who was expected to sign it. The project will utilize the facilities of WOR-TV of New York City, a privately owned station.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON
HELLO!

So many people ask, "What about the market?" I reply, "Hell's bells! I've no definite opinion. Doggone, if I know!"

Many of us, too, long for leaders of Lincoln's stature—to guide us in the coming months—and years.

It is sad to think that ahead lies a real danger—renewed inflation—stemming, ironically enough, from a special war-goods' explosion. That's a far greater risk than the orthodox capital-goods' boom because a war-boom is subject to recklessness springing from emotional and political handling.

This does not imply that businessmen don't overplay capital-goods' booms. They do, but are not likely to send the steam pressure up too high, as it will burst the boilers. The escape valve of the investment markets warns in time to turn down the heat. All of this may require some thinking, but it's good for everyone to think.

We're in for changes—baffling ones. For instance, Vice President Nixon has emphasized that the jobs of 4½ million Americans depend upon foreign trade; and that we exported 8 billion $'s worth of non-military goods last year. He quoted Cordell Hull, "Either goods will cross borders, or soldiers will." Now is the time to turn back, and study, a few pages of history. In history, F.D.R. and Harry Truman departed from the Constitutional Direction of Our Way of Life—to the left. And, neighbor, our country is racing along that road.

Five Are Drowned

Shopping Spree Ends in Tragedy

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A carefree day of shopping in the Bahamas ended last night with a plane crash which drowned three adults and two children.

The only survivor was Floyd Scites of Detroit, Mich., who was rescued from the Atlantic 2½ miles off Hollywood by a fishing boat which came upon the crash scene by chance.

Scites said he and the Hugh Wilkinson family of Dania, Fla., to which he was distantly related, took off from Fort Lauderdale yesterday morning in a rented single-engine plane.

The party spent the day shopping at Bimini and Nassau and started back about sundown. At about 7:15 p. m. (EST), Scites said, Wilkinson, 34, who was piloting the plane, commented almost nonchalantly "it looks like we're out of gas."

With that, the little plane began losing altitude, hit the water and sank within five minutes. Wilkinson, his wife, Patricia, 30; their son, Dana, 7; Scites' wife, Dolores, 30; and their 18-month-old daughter Deborah all drowned.

Solons Have Their Fun, Too

ALBANY (AP)—The boys in the Senate have their fun, too, as demonstrated by a clash yesterday between Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, and Democratic Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki.

In a heated debate over the GOP workmen's compensation bill, Mahoney, a possible choice for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, turned to Zaretzki, across the aisle, and shouted:

"I'm not frightened by your governor, and neither is my party."

"If you're not afraid of him," Zaretzki replied, "why don't you run against him?"

While fellow senators roared with laughter, Mahoney stepped over and shook Zaretzki's hand—warmly.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 26, 1958

JUDGING THE ECONOMY

By their own admission, the top economists can make no more than informed guesses as to what this country's economy will do next. Diagnosing the future of business is a most inexact science.

Because of the nature of most economic indicators, they cannot even tell to any full extent what the business situation is today, let alone a month or two from now. For example, the mid-March unemployment figures are not ready for publication until mid-April.

Their best judgments, inevitably, relate to evidences of what the economy has already done.

This lag in measuring economic levels has its dangers. It tends to increase the influence of both the optimists and the pessimists, each of which is hard at work in a business downturn painting his own portrait of conditions. The uncertainty gives them a field day.

Optimists, continuously persuaded that things are not as bad as they seem or that they soon will start to improve, can delay too long the remedial measures that might help reverse the decline.

Pessimists, harping steadily on the gloomy aspects, predicting the worst, can shake confidence in some degree and create a mood in which the swing back upward becomes more difficult.

In the light of our uneasiness as to where we are and where we are going economically, it requires not only a rare cool head but a great amount of good luck for the President or anybody else to act at just the right moment to throw the government's weight against the decline.

We will only know in retrospect, when things are better again, whether Mr. Eisenhower acted in wise and timely fashion.

Right now he is still waiting, holding off a shot in the arm tax cut and big-scale public works. Some think this is foolish, that the time for action is long since here. Are they pessimists, or good guessers?

Certainly nothing in the known economic picture today gives cause for any real enthusiasm. Many indicators are still moving downward. Production is still slipping, and unemployment has risen to a 16-year high. This is already the deepest recession since World War II.

Hopeful of a spring upturn, the President wants to stand by a bit longer. But as he watches he must inevitably be troubled by the thought that if he is wrong, then the steps toward recovery will in the end have to be much bigger and costlier. It is a tough spot to be in.

If he needs the accident of good luck to be right, then most Americans must be hoping fervently that he will have that accident.

Nowadays many people consider living within their means as more or less dealing in futures.

THE CANADIAN ELECTION

It is one of the curious ironies that we in the United States seem to pay far more attention to national elections in Europe and more distant spots than we do to major balloting in Canada, our northern neighbor with whom we have long enjoyed extremely friendly and economically rewarding relations.

Right now the second national campaign in less than a year is under way north of the border, with the future of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Conservative government—first in 22 years—at stake.

And the election there is of more than ordinary concern to Americans. Diefenbaker, disturbed by Canada's one-billion-dollar trade deficit with the United States, has instituted a policy of curbing imports from us in favor of larger imports from Great Britain.

The Liberal party, led in this election for the first time by the celebrated diplomat, Lester Pearson, opposes this policy as damaging to U.S.-Canadian relations.

We have no right to take sides in this combat. But our interest in the outcome March 31 cannot help but be great.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
A LOGICAL APPROACH

Professor Calvin B. Hoover of Duke University hit a bull's eye when he defined co-existence: "We have become accustomed to thinking of a policy of co-existence with Soviet Russia as the opposite of our present foreign policy. In fact it is paradoxical to present a policy of co-existence as an alternative to our present foreign policy. We have, of course, been co-existing with the Soviet regime for the 40 years of its life. Indeed we may well ask ourselves how we could possibly have carried on a foreign policy which would have afforded an alternative to co-existence. The historical answer is that the alternative to the co-existence of governments has been annihilation of the one or the other. For almost the first time in history the alternatives to co-existence now includes the annihilation of both."

Actually, every people co-exists or even exists with the co, with every other people whether they like it or not unless one of them has been exterminated. And usually even if a country moves from first place to tenth or is conquered by another people in war, the people still exist. For instance, Poland is now, more or less, a province of Soviet Russia, but the Polish people still exist and with characteristic stiff-neckedness resist total absorption by Soviet Russia as is evidenced by the successful battle which is being waged in that country for the survival of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Russians give a special meaning, however, to the term co-existence. They do not mean that nations or peoples continue to live together in a narrowing world. What they do mean is that varying systems of life continue to thrive and grow simultaneously. Some early Marxists did not believe that possible.

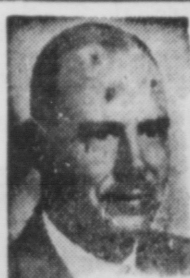

It all comes down to the fact that willy-nilly we have to live with the Russians, as unpleasant as it may be. We have had 40 years of the unpleasantness and are, as a matter of fact, learning how. For one thing, we are learning that it is unnecessary for the Russians to tell the truth or to live up to an agreement or to keep a bargain.

When one knows by long experience that that is the situation, he finds a mechanism for getting along. For instance, this summit conference business. It is becoming increasingly obvious from statements made by Khrushchev and Bulganin that they do not want any kind of a summit conference. It has been clear to Secretary of State Dulles that the talk about the conference is a hoax and a fraud designed to achieve some other purpose.

The genius of living with the Russians is to be able to discover what the primary purpose is. That is not an easy task. My own opinion, which I will not too enthusiastically back, is that the primary purpose is to develop a public opinion in Great Britain which will be exceedingly unfavorable to the United States. Others believe that the campaign is aimed at West Germany. Still others are looking for a clue in the Middle East.

The reason that I assume that this campaign for the summit conference has nothing to do with the summit conference but is designed to deteriorate Anglo-American relations is because precisely that is occurring—not only Anglo-American relations but also American-Canadian relations which, in most respects, are at their very worst. This is probably the first time in history that both political parties in Canada are openly anti-American. There may be many causes for this but obviously the most serious cause is that Canadians feel that they are being led into another war by the Americans.

Their leaders must realize that in the next war, they will have little chance, for much of the fighting will be in the air over their soil. They will have no means of preventing both Soviet Russia and the United States from flying their bomb-carrying planes over Canada, for it is likely that most of the flying will be across the North Pole as the shortest route between the United States and Soviet Russia. So Lester Pearson becomes a pacifist and wins a Nobel Prize. But none of that will help because geography and weapons determine the nature of war. Pearson cannot change geography, but Soviet Russia can scare the Canadians, which it is doing very effectively. (Copyright, 1958, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Strides in Heart Surgery

Save Babies Once Doomed

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Written for NEA Service

Little could be done for the infant who was born with a congenital defect of the heart or larger blood vessels, in the past. The physician tried to make a diagnosis of where the difficulty lay, advised rest and frequently was forced to tell the parents that nothing could be done and that the outlook for normal health and life span were dim.

Today, thanks to the astonishing progress which has been made with heart and blood vessel surgery based on investigations in the dog laboratory, a great many children doomed to ill health and untimely death can be treated with great success.

One of the most important developments of heart surgery has been that used in the treatment of so-called "blue babies." The bluish color of the skin which provides the common name is caused by lack of oxygen attached to the hemoglobin or coloring matter of the blood.

IN BLUE BABIES the deficiency of oxygen is the result of a malformed heart or of the large blood vessel near it.

Such defective structures permit the blood from the veins (which contain little oxygen) to mix with the blood from the arteries. The bright red blood of the arteries has passed through the lungs and has there received the normal oxygen supplies needed.

There are several kinds of malformations of the heart which will permit this mixing of oxygen-containing and oxygen-poor blood.

The various kinds are too numerous and too complicated to describe in detail. They have such technical names as coarctation of the aorta, tetralogy of Fallot, or pulmonary stenosis with intact ventricular septum.

The nature of the defect does make a difference, however, because some kinds can now be successfully treated by surgery and others cannot.

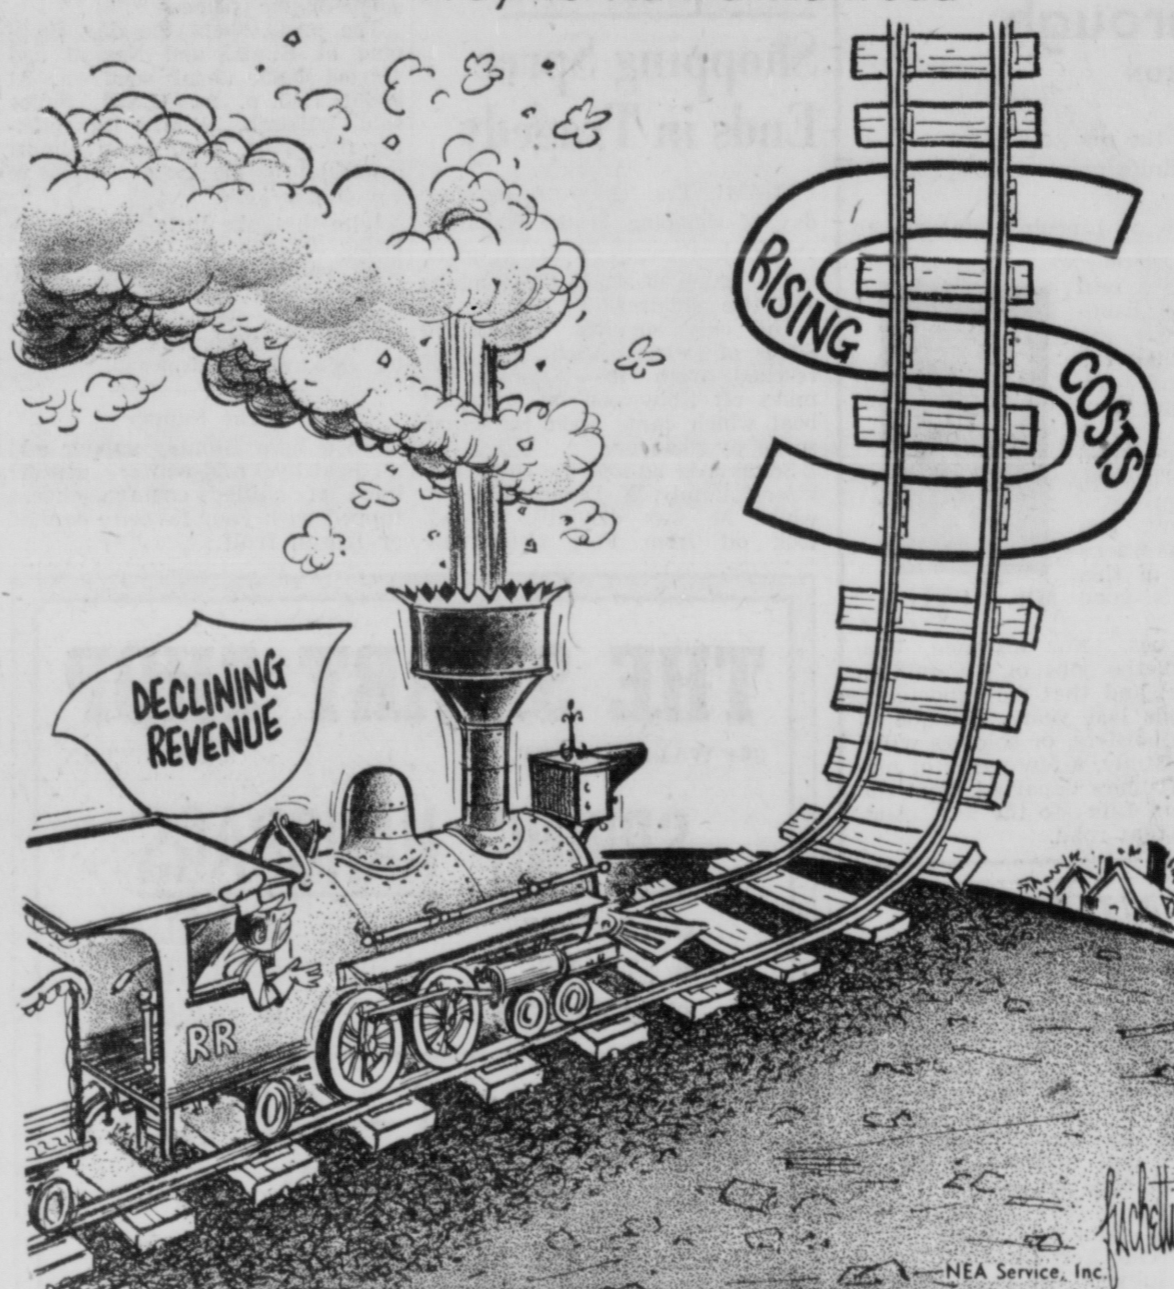

IN ONE OF these conditions the passageway between the heart and one of the large blood vessels which should normally close before birth fails to do so. This is called a patent or open ductus arteriosus. Often this opening can now be closed by delicate heart surgery.

Several other congenital malformations of the heart can also be treated successfully by surgery. For this reason careful study of each case has to be undertaken in order to make a diagnosis and to decide whether or not surgery offers good prospects of providing relief.

Of course there are risks and these must be weighed against what would be expected if nothing is attempted. But the risks are constantly being lessened by improvements in surgical methods, improved means of administering anesthesia and better before and after operative care.

Now, too, surgery can sometimes be used for disorders of the heart other than those present at birth. It is virtually certain that such progress will continue.

Heluva Way to Run a Railroad

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (NEA)

—The half dozen launchings scheduled at the Air Force missile test center here for the last week in March give evidence of the stepped-up pace of America's space program.

Listed for countdown are an Air Force Intercontinental Atlas, an Army Jupiter C with Explorer III satellite, an Air Force intermediate range Thor, two Bomarcas, a Snark and miscellaneous Matadors. No date has yet been set for the Navy's next Vanguard firing with satellite.

A two-day tour of installations at Patrick Air Force Base and its auxiliary installations 18 miles to the north on the cape, shows what a big business it has become.

Government and missile contractors have 400 million dollars invested here. Its operational budget is close to 100 million a year—and it is growing.

THE BASE now has 16,000 personnel—military, Civil Service and civilian contractor. The figure will be 18,000 in a year.

The base operates 17 hours a day. Contractors are allowed all the overtime they need.

"Hundreds"—the exact number isn't revealed—but literally hundreds of missiles have been fired here since the base was opened in 1950 as a joint proving ground for the three services. Its 5,000-mile range is now extended to Ascension Island in the South Atlantic.

The test center has a normal firing routine of a missile a day. It has actually fired three in one day.

The three launching areas on the two ocean-front sides of the triangular cape now have 20 launching pads. There is room to build more as needed.

Each complex—launching platform, gantry service towers (as high as 12-story buildings) and control blockhouse—represents a cost of up to four million dollars apiece.

THESE ARE FOR MISSILES launched from the ground. Harbor facilities where the Navy's Polaris missile can be tested are now under construction.

Air-to-air and ground-to-ground missiles will not be tested here. A satellite to orbit north and south around the poles could not be launched here under present ground safety rules. Missiles to reach the moon might be difficult to launch from the Cape because of earth rotation factors.

But the first of everything else would probably have to be tested here, says the base commander, Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates. This will include rocket engines with thrust up to a million pounds, now being developed.

Half-ton and one-ton satellites could be tested here, says General Yates. The United States has the components with which to do it. Scientists are now arguing about how to combine them for the best results.

PUBLIC MISCONCEPTIONS have grown up about what goes on here, General Yates believes. Test firings that explode seem to get the most publicity. This gives the whole U. S. missile program a black eye.

The test center considers a scientific data desired—even the most minute of flight.

Another factor frequently forgotten is that these are research missiles. They are not operational weapons suitable for combat use. Instead of carrying a warhead, it is loaded with an equivalent weight of complicated electronic gear. This is what costs so much and takes so much time to ready. Missiles are not considered operational until they have been fully tested by the builder and are ready to turn over to troops for training and firing in the field. Of some 35 U. S. missiles now under development not more than half a dozen in the first family can be considered fully operational.

Still under development is a second family of more complicated missiles including the Blue Goose, Titan, Pershing, Polaris and Minute Man, to be tested here in the future.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, March 25 — Many editors and readers have asked me for the notorious letter from Walter and Victor Reuther exhorting their friends to "carry on the fight for a Soviet America." It was introduced into the Congressional Record at a hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities on Oct. 31, 1938. Dr. J. B. Matthews, who had said farewell to communism and introduced the term "fellow traveler" into our political jargon, was the chief investigator.

Matthews first saw the letter when Roy Reuther stopped him on a corner in Flint, Mich., on Feb. 16, 1933. It was written from "Abmozaof, Topkini." Russia. Roy was a Lovestone Communist. Matthews said Roy expressed concern because the letter indicated that Walter and Victor had become Stalin Communists.

It read, in part: "Because you are anxious to receive word from the 'workers' fatherland' I am taking this first opportunity."

"What you have written concerning the strikes and the general labor unrest in Detroit plus what we have learned of the rising discontent of the American workers,

WASHINGTON — What the world wants more than anything else nowadays is a period of happiness and security. Instead, it is getting a heavy dose of gloom and insecurity.

The cures proposed are a symptom of the times. The mood toward the Communists is rapidly becoming in many Western countries one of submissiveness and acceptance. A prominent newspaper publisher on the conservative side in England, for example, openly advocates "peace at almost any price."

This was the mood before World War II, and it gave Hitler his principal basis for encouragement. The Nazi dictator thought he would have a pushover and hence started a war on Poland that became a big war.

Reds Making Rapid Strides Today the Communists are making rapid strides throughout the world. They are benefiting by the disunity inside the Western countries and the naive acceptance of the idea that a "summit" conference with the Kremlin dictatorship will bring peace with disarmament, lower budgets, and the ease and comforts of an enjoyable existence. What really is lacking is the courage to face reality.

There is little evidence of a spirit of sacrifice or even of faith in ideals among many of the leaders of political thought here and abroad. Any one who, like Secretary Dulles sticks to his convictions is condemned as "inflexible" or "idealistic." The times, it is said, call for a "deal," even with gangsters.

Winning "Cold War" Meanwhile, the Soviet Union is winning the "cold war." From the Far East to the Middle East and from the Arab countries clear across North Africa to Morocco, the Communist apparatus is gaining ground by penetration and political infiltration.

Puppet governments everywhere proclaim their new "nationalism," but the inside facts show they are stooges of the Kremlin. England and France have been weakened from within by Communist strategy, which capitalizes on the political ineptitude of leaders who put party interests above their country.

West Germany's government is being undermined by political groups playing the Communist game. In America, President Eisenhower's leadership in world policy is constantly assailed by his political opponents, thus affording the men in the Kremlin the encouragement they want as they continue their plotting and scheming in the Far East and Southeast Asia as well as in the Middle East.

Communists agents and their pawns are active everywhere in propagandizing points of view that are, by coincidence, always taken up by various political groups in the country who seem unaware of or indifferent to the fact that what they do is giving the Communists their main hope of producing inaction by the United States in world affairs.

Hope for Isolationism

The truth is that the Soviets see American opinion swinging sooner or later either to isolationism or to "peace" at any price. They feel that, by persistent pressure, European opinion will be frightened into refusing the use of missile bases to American forces. This would naturally mean a withdrawal also of American troops from Europe. Then the puppet governments directed by Moscow could take over the whole of Western Europe without firing a shot.

The naivete of many people in the West is amazing. Communist influences are permitted to flourish. In America the Communists have gone underground but they are as active as ever, and the Department of Justice knows it. People in America and England, moreover, are being scared, for instance, by a constant propaganda against nuclear tests, despite official information which shows the vital need for such tests and the scientific evidence which indicates that the slight damage done is far outweighed by military necessity. Now the drive is on to stop testing altogether irrespective of any real guarantees against violations by the Soviets.

It is startling how many people in Congress and in the Parliaments of the Western World are ready to accept the Soviets' word despite their breaking of numerous pledges heretofore, despite the war the Communists waged in Korea, and despite the bribery and espionage which have enabled the Soviet Union virtually to take over the Middle East, substituting its own imperialism for the much-condemned "colonialism" of the past.

On Tax Reduction

In the midst of such a dangerous international situation, the politicians not only are fighting each other on Capitol Hill about international issues but they seem eager to make the domestic situation worse by unsound schemes of tax reduction—involving a budget deficit of from ten to fifteen billion dollars—which could do more harm than good.

Unity and patriotism among the bickering legislators—in Washington, London, Paris, Rome and Bonn—and a spirit of sacrifice throughout the democracies could give the rulers of the Kremlin pause and frustrate their conquest of bigger and bigger areas. But a self-centered populace seems never to see until it is too late that a nation cannot be strong unless it is united and ready to face the enemy unflinchingly. Appeasement means war, and internal divisions encourage the aggressors. Will history repeat at the experience of the 1930s be duplicated? The economic recession then was cured only by war and at what a price in human lives! (Reproduction Rights Reserved.)

Voters Are Urged To Defeat Bingo By Ulster Classis

The Classis of Ulster of the Reformed Church in America, has called upon citizens in communities which will vote on legalized bingo to reject the proposal.

In a statement submitted by the Rev. Kenneth M. Cordes, pastor of the Reformed Church of Gardiner, and chairman of the Social Action committee of the Classis of Ulster, legalized bingo is opposed.

Dual Standards, He Says

Legalized bingo is class legislation in which dual standards are set up permitting some organizations to practice what is still unlawful for other groups and organizations, the statement contends.

Legalizing bingo, the statement alleges, "gives our youth the impression that gambling is right simply because of legalization and that the principle to get something for nothing is the basis on which to build a good life."

Any attempt to legalize gambling "tends to undermine Christian character, to break down moral standards and defeats the whole God-given responsibility of Christian stewardship," the statement holds.

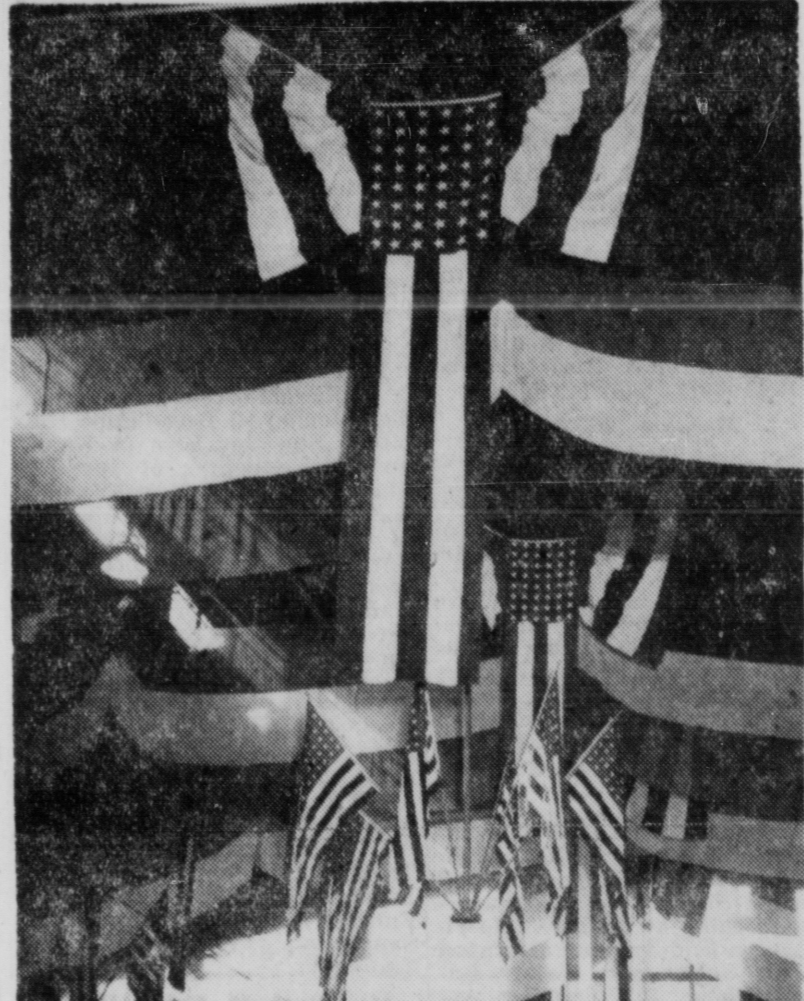

Text of Statement

The text of the statement released today by the Rev. Mr. Cordes says:

"The Classis of Ulster of the Reformed Church in America upholds and affirms without reservation that decision of its denomination, the State and National Council of Churches and various other concerned groups that legalized bingo is contrary to the American way of life and the moral law.

We base our convictions on the following statements and ask you as a responsible citizen to consider them carefully before you vote for legalized bingo in your respective communities.

1. Legalized Bingo is class legislation in which dual standards are set up permitting some organizations to practice what is still unlawful for other groups and organizations.

2. Legalized Bingo cannot be justified merely because it is used to support a worthy cause. The harmful and degrading influences of legalized gambling are of such proportion that this fact is affirmed.

3. We do not wish to give our youth the impression that gambling is right simply because of legalization and that the principle to get something for nothing is the basis on which to build a good life. Nor can we uphold with clear conscience a practice of doubtful reputation whereby our youth are not only exposed but are more easily lead to become the victims of delinquency and lawlessness.

4. Legalized gambling tends to undermine Christian character, to break down moral standards and defeats the whole God-given responsibility of Christian Stewardship."

Located Lost Sheep

Sheep ranchers in Iceland recently requested the U. S. Air Force Group stationed there to assist in rounding up stray sheep who had gotten lost amid jagged lava rocks. Capt. Carl R. Pigeon, of Hopewell, Va., took off in his helicopter and soon located the last sheep.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Chances of business getting much tax relief as a recession remedy aren't of the best today. But the clamor grows against what high taxes are doing to long term business prospects.

Industry's historic ability to create new jobs is threatened, business spokesmen say, both by the high rates and by some of the rules of figuring expenses, and hence taxes.

Long Range Problem

The arguments run this way: This is a long range problem and not just a means of easing the current recession. Without new investment there can be few new jobs. High corporate tax rates clip the earnings that business could reinvest in expansion. High personal income taxes, especially in the top brackets, drain one of the past's great sources of risk capital.

Further, even if investment funds are available, a corporation can't attract outside capital if its profits are meager because more than half of its earnings go for taxes.

Risk Capital Different

Risk capital is different from investment in corporate bonds or common stock in a going concern.

The risk capital which industrial spokesmen complain is drying up goes into new ventures, new products, new services. Traditionally the investor wants a chance to make a good profit. If taxes make that chance slim, the argument goes, naturally he'll put his money into a sure thing instead.

The sure things provide today's jobs. But most new jobs of the future will come from new ventures.

Many business leaders, especially in the heavy industries, also clamor for a change in the depreciation rules for determining corporate taxes. They charge that many companies suffer from erosion of capital because present depreciation allowances don't take into account today's higher replacement costs.

Would Change Rule

They want the rules changed so that they can take depreciation allowances before taxes on what a plant's or machine's value is today rather than on what it may have cost years ago before inflation took its toll.

Fast amortization has helped many corporations to make at least temporary savings on taxes. This bookkeeping method was permitted by the government usually for plants built or machines bought to further the defense program. Costs could be written off in five years, say, rather than in the usual 20.

Some think that fast amortization, not necessarily just for defense projects, might help lick the recession. They urge that firms be allowed to write off new plants in five years if they'll dust off now some of the expansion plans temporarily shelved while waiting to see how deep the recession goes. Such expansion could create jobs.

Democrats Label Ike's Pay Plan Inadequate Step

WASHINGTON (AP)—Key House Democrats described as inadequate today President Eisenhower's proposal for a temporary increase in unemployment benefits. They termed the President's request for a one-year government-aided 50 per cent increase in jobless pay coverage a "minimum" proposal they said does not meet emergency needs of the recession.

At the same time, there was growing evidence that some Democrats were leaning heavily toward a wage package tax reduction, unemployment compensation and an increase in social security benefits into a single bill. This "package" approach to the economic situation was being talked up increasingly among influential House Democrats. It would wrap up in one bundle what these members consider to be the essentials of anti-recession legislation.

Meanwhile, a quick start on consideration of increased jobless pay benefits was ordered by the House Ways and Means Committee. Without question, the outside world would not know whether or not the Russians were halting nuclear bomb production, but millions of people might believe their claim.

The United States has detected and announced numerous Russian nuclear tests, and thus would have some check on any Soviet claim of suspending tests.

Vote Nears on Roads

WASHINGTON (AP)—Advocates of billboard control along the new federal superhighway network predicted success today, as the Senate reached the voting stage on an anti-recession bill to keep up roadbuilding.

The first key roll call was scheduled on an amendment to knock out a provision carrying a potential 200 million dollar bonus to states that agree to regulate billboards on the 41,000-mile interstate system.

Both Sens. Neuberger (D-Ore) and Kuchel (R-Calif.), co-sponsors of the provision, predicted it would be retained by a substantial vote.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said he might keep the Senate in session as late as 11:00 or 11:30 p. m. tonight if necessary to complete action on the bill.

Johnson said he considered it "a most important anti-recession measure," adding that he understood it would produce 520,000 jobs.

Curriculum Told At Meeting of MJM P-TA Group

One-hundred and thirty parents attended the Myron J. Michael Parent-Teachers Association meeting last week at the junior high school.

James Tobin, vocational guidance counselor of Kingston High School, presented the following curriculum offered to the incoming students. College preparatory, vocational business, vocational agriculture, vocational homemaking, art and industrial courses, including trade, state industrial, electronics, needle trades and industrial arts.

Hubert Hoderath explained industrial courses which prepare students for jobs when they leave high school or to take engineering courses if they specialize in mathematics or physics.

Tobin explained the new advanced placement program where students of exceptional ability may take courses in science of a second year level in the freshman curriculum. This plan would entitle the student to include first year college science in the senior year of high school, thus giving college credit.

Two new courses, "Problems of Democracy" and "Economics" are also in this program. Beginning in the fall of 1958, eighth grade pupils will be given elementary algebra. This will enable the student to take college mathematics during the senior year in high school.

Young people taking these advanced courses are selected on a basis of reading ability, I.Q., motivation, stability, maturity, plus the recommendation of teachers and approval of parents. According to Tobin, levels of instruction key the program to the ability of the student.

Following these talks small groups counseled by Tobin, Peter Etienne, Hoderath, Lois Prescott and Ann Donovan of the high school and Miss Blanche Kirschenblum and Dan Allen of the junior high school, were able to ask questions concerning individual problems. Parents are urged to make appointments with these counselors in order to discuss their children's high school program.

Etienne, also vocational counselor of the high school, presented the scholarship possibilities for high school students. There are college scholarships, state scholarships and scholarships given by local organizations. Some are obtained by examination, others given on merit and need.

So They Say..

When I feel gloomy I think that five years from now they (the Russians) will be obviously superior to us in every area. But when I am optimistic I feel it will take 10 years for them to achieve that position.

Msgr. Connolly Talks to Lions On Parish Birth

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph F. Connolly, pastor of St. Philomena's Church, spoke at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Kingston Lions Club Tuesday on "The Birth of a Parish."

His remarks in full: Reflection upon the "birth of a parish" can conveniently and effectively be based upon three points: principle, problem, plan. Of these three the first is the most significant and the least appreciated.

Continuation of History

A "new" parish being founded today, is neither something essentially new nor is it really an event of today. "Another" parish, a "new" parish is really a continuation, an extension of human history—general, special, and particular.

When another parish comes into being the very work of creation is being continued and extended, since God created man and woman to increase and multiply not only as individuals but as a society, as a community and another parish reflects the increase of individuals and the expansion of society by one more living community.

History Expanded

When another parish is born the history and the very life of the church, already 2000 years old, is extended and expanded. The Church of Christ is one—one in time, place and people. It is for all time, all the world, all people. A "new" parish is not "another" church, "another" community, "another" society. It is just another cell of a healthy spiritual body that comes into being as a necessary result of vital internal growth.

When a new parish is born the work of creation generally, the life of the universal church specially, and finally the history of the city of Kingston particularly is continued and extended. For again a new parish comes into being because individuals in this area have increased and multiplied; in this increase of individuals is an increase too in the followers of Christ, and society in the Kingston area grows and expands, society civil and society religious alike.

A new parish is born not today, but the seed was sown in the act of Creation, vitalized in the coming of Christ, generated in the establishment of the community of Kingston.

'Fruit of Yesterday'

A new parish is not just an event of today, since it is itself the fruit of yesterday, the root of tomorrow, an event in the enduring vital continuum of human history. It will endure as long as the vitality of the community endures. A new parish is not just for the Catholic people who belong to it. It is an instrument established by human authority under the institution of divine authority to serve the total community in which it is located as best it can, may and should, and to influence as best it can, in whatever way it may the total welfare of all whom it can reach.

This is just a birdseye view of some of the principles underlying the concept of "parish." Against the background of this principle can the problems be better recognized, the plan more carefully projected, he said.

Blue-Gold Award Banquet Is Held By Scout Pack 9

The annual blue and gold banquet of Cub Pack 9, postponed by the February blizzard, was held Sunday evening at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, with special ceremonies honoring achievements of the Cub Scouts and Cubmaster Robert Elliott.

Leader of the pack since its organization in 1954, Cubmaster Elliott was presented with a gift from the Scouts and a diploma in recognition of his years of service. The presentation was made by the Rev. David C. Gaise, pastor of the sponsoring institution. Mrs. Elliott was also recognized for her outstanding contribution to the success of the pack and was presented with a gift.

In his closing remarks to the large assemblage of Cubs and their families, Elliott indicated that his interest in Scouting would continue, since he had recently signed as assistant scoutmaster of Troop 9, also sponsored by Redeemer Church. He introduced the new leaders of the pack, John Rowland who will serve as cubmaster, and Donald Ryan, assistant cubmaster.

Den Chiefs Rudy Hopkins and Jack McGarry conducted the opening flag ceremony. Five new Bobcats and their families welcomed into the pack at a candle-light ceremony were Joseph Emrich, George Freer, George Hopok and Raymond and Roger Wells.

Paul Huth and Edward Norton, who earned Webelos rank, the highest in Cub Scouting, during the month of February, were presented with badges along with Webelos neckerchiefs.

Other awards for the months of February and March included: Wayne Meyer, Bear badge; Thomas Filocco, Lion badge and silver arrow; Raymond Sperle, Bear badge gold and silver arrow; Richard Mott, Bear badge and gold arrow; George Tsitsera, Wolf badge; Kenneth White, silver arrow on Lion badge; Dennis Emrich, gold arrow on Lion badge; Thomas Gilday, gold and silver arrow on Bear badge; Eugene Smith, gold arrow on Bear badge; Michael Kennedy, two silver arrows on Bear badge; Raymond Krom, silver arrow on Lion badge; Fred Travis, gold and silver arrows on Lion badge; and Ronald Reynolds, silver arrow on Bear badge.

Denner's stripes were awarded to Thomas Gilday, and assistant denner's stripes to Stephan Ryan and Thomas Filocco.

Den 1, under the leadership of Mrs. Betty Travis, den mother, enacted scenes depicting the life of the Eskimo in conjunction with the theme of the month on Alaska. Den exhibits included models of Eskimo villages, trading pieces, sleds, and pictures made and collected by the Scouts.

Jerry Blair, scout executive of Rip Van Winkle Council, spoke to the Cubs and led them in a yell. Mrs. Jeanne Ryan conducted group singing. Jack McGarry played taps during the closing ceremony.

AMERICAN MENULamb Cuts Up Into Variety Of Economical Menu Treats

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

In the springtime or any other time, lamb can gambol across your menus in many different and economical forms.

Leg of lamb and loin chops are undoubtedly favorites. But you can add variety with cuts like boneless sirloin roast rolled shoulder riblets and leg steaks. A sirloin roast is the broad upper end of a full leg of lamb and usually weighs 2 to 2½ pounds. Rolled shoulder is an excellent choice for roasting. The meat is boned, rolled and tied and is easy to carve. Economical riblets are strips cut from the breast attached to the rib bones. Lamb steaks are a good idea when you're planning to serve a leg of lamb roast. Ask the meat man to cut steaks from the sirloin end of the leg and you're all set with lamb for another meal.

Lamb Shoulder Roast

With Pineapple (8 Servings)

One 4-pound boned shoulder of lamb, rolled and tied, 2 tablespoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon curry powder, 1-pound -4- ounce can crushed pineapple.

Cook lamb until browned on all sides. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and pineapple and add to lamb. Cook for 1½ minutes, turning occasionally.

Lamb Riblets With Bean Sprouts (Makes 4 Servings)

Two pounds lamb riblets cut in 1½-inch pieces, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup water, 1 10-ounce package frozen peas, 1 1-pound can bean sprouts, drained.

Cook lamb until browned on FOUR WAYS to buy lamb are shown above. It's a meat offering a variety of cuts that are both economical and delicious.

all sides. Add seasonings and water. Cover and cook 1 hour or until lamb is tender. Add remaining ingredients and cook, covered, 10 minutes.

TOMORROW'S DINNER:Tit for Tat

MOLINE, Ill. (AP)—An auto thief who emulates a pack rat's tactics of stealing but leaving something in return is on the loose hereabouts. Ken Beckman reported his station wagon was stolen while parked on 23rd Street, near 31st. A farmer at Illinois City discovered his 1954 Oldsmobile was missing but that a station wagon was in its place in the farm yard. The sheriff's office determined that the station wagon was Beckman's. The next day the farmer's car was found just down the street from where Beckman's station wagon was stolen.

Spend More for Newspapers

People spend more for their daily newspapers than for any other form of reading matter. They spend 17% more for newspapers than for books, and almost twice the amount they spend for magazines.

Egg Facts

CHICAGO (AP)—Lent season spotlights the egg, and the National Egg Foundation says that during the season Americans will make a tremendous dent in the estimated 60 billion eggs that chickens lay this year in the United States. In some cities white eggs cost more than brown eggs, but in Boston, where brown eggs are preferred, the situation is reversed. All told, the 423 million hens last year earned a total of 2½ billion dollars for their five million owners. They outproduced the hens of any other nation, with two out of every five eggs laid in the world labeled "made in America."

Cream puff shells should be filled shortly before serving.

Best Speculation on Future Values Not
Low Price Levels

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—An Ohio reader asks, (1) "I own some Ajax Petroleum. Do you think this company has good future growth?" (2) "What do you think of Columbian General Life of Texas which I hold?" (3) "Would you suggest a good small company in which I could invest $500 and see it really grow in the next ten years?"

A. Ajax is fairly small Canadian gas producer with a rather large capitalization. Natural gas holdings amount to about 11,000 acres, sales are about one million dollars a year, and earnings negligible. At the last count there were only 25 employees.

There are 4 million shares outstanding which trade on the American Stock Exchange at 9 1/16, near their lowest level since 1951. There may be some future growth here but there is no evidence of it in past records or in the relatively unimportant land holdings. I believe that the natural gas industry in Canada is in for a tremendous period of expansion and that better situated stocks will do very well indeed over the next two or three years. My suggestion here would be to switch your holdings of Ajax into Provo Gas Producers, one of the major suppliers to the Trans Canada Pipe Line. Stock sells for about 2 1/2 on the Toronto Exchange, and I can see real growth ahead for this issue. Your Columbian Life of Houston is not known to me nor is there any information available in my books or files. Stock sold recently around 1-1 1/2. Why not write a good broker in Houston, Underwood, Newhaus & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, or the Houston branch of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith?

LOW - PRICED STOCKS NOT NECESSARILY CHEAP

Judging by the two holdings you mentioned, I think that you may have been influenced in the past by one of the commonest fallacies of investment thinking. Perhaps you have been led to assume that because a stock is low-priced it is necessarily cheap. This is not always so. It is perfectly true mathematically that if you buy a stock for $1 and it goes up 1 point, you have made a $100 per cent profit. You have to remember, however, that your chances of picking a winner in this group are no better than 50-50 and probably very much less. My opinion after 35 years of experience is that investors should buy visible future values and that the price range should be a secondary consideration. There are good buys at all levels. Very likely more money has been made in the past few years in International Business Machines now 335, than in the majority of $1 stocks. For the $500 you now have to invest, I suggest some moderately low-priced issues which appear to me to have good appreciation prospects over the coming years.

SOME BASICALLY SOUND SPECULATIONS

I like Standard Dredging, selling for about 92 on the American Exchange. This is a big hydraulic dredger, an indirect beneficiary of the St. Lawrence Seaway. Earnings have been in a strong upward trend and the stock has performed much better than the market during the past six months. Then there is Audio Devices, one of the very few issues in the magnetic tape field. Use of magnetic tape is growing by leaps and bounds and this little company should grow too. Shares are traded on the American Exchange, around 7, and look very promising to me. I particularly like Eastern Industries, a New England electronics stock which has done well during the recession. Shares trade in the over-the-counter market at around 2 1/2 which is about where they were when the bear market began. Eastern Industries' major product is electronic traffic-actuated controls used at highway intersections. These have been successfully installed in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Atlanta. I think a very good long-range speculation would be Cyrus Eaton's Steel Rock Iron Mines. This stock sold as high as 23 last year and was recently traded on the Toronto Stock Exchange at around 10. Steel Rock is a major Ontario iron ore producer for American steel companies. Recovery in steel output, when it comes, could boost these shares materially. Any strong situation dominated by the Cyrus Eaton interests should work out very well over a reasonable period. (Send your investment questions to Mr. Roger E. Spear, in care of this paper.)

Approval Is Given

ated that the increased cost of gas will approximate an annual average of slightly more than four per cent.

Commercial Rate

For commercial customers, the rate for gas consumption up to 2,600 cubic feet monthly will be increased by five cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Above that level, where commercial rates are now higher than those applicable to residential customers, no change in unit charges will be effected.

The new rates will result in increases of from 25 to 37 cents monthly for commercial customers.

Reasons Given

In the aggregate, it is estimated that the new rates will produce about $218,800 additional revenue for the company.

In seeking Commission acceptance of its new tariffs, the company reported that the additional revenues it will produce are needed to offset the effects of wage increases and higher operating costs, including increased charges to the company for the gas it purchases.

al amendment designed to encourage the federal government to take over the state barge canal system.

A second amendment approved by the Assembly would permit the Northway to pass through the forest preserve on a line generally paralleling Route 9.

The Senate passed and sent to Harriman a GOP-sponsored bill that would create a state authority to deal with parking problems in the state Capitol area.

The Senate gave final legislative approval to a bill that would extend to television a state ban on misleading advertising. The ban now applies to newspapers, magazines, radio, handbills and similar media.

Also sent to Harriman after Senate approval was a plan for cutting to passenger car levels the registration fees for station wagons used only as pleasure cars.

Harriman, meanwhile, signed a bill continuing for 1957 the reduction, to a maximum $35, in the unincorporated business tax.

GOP leaders altered the original plan to preserve the State Court of Claims, which would have abolished, and to retain the surrogates in the New York City area and in Erie, Monroe and Onondaga counties. The Tweed Commission would have merged all surrogates into other courts.

Methodist Services For Holy Week Listed

WOODSTOCK — Services of worship will be conducted each night during Holy Week at Woodstock Methodist Church by the minister, the Rev. Garnett M. Wilder.

The theme of the sermons will emphasize the witness of persons who know Jesus and will be based on a work by Dr. John Calvin Reid.

Topics are as follows: Monday, "I Was His Closest Friend;" Tuesday, "I Sentenced Him;" Wednesday, "I Carried His Cross;" Thursday, "Sacrament of the Lord's Supper;" Friday, "I Was Crucified With Him."

Special music will be presented by the choir.

Sermon topic for Palm Sunday will be "House of Prayer—Or Den of Thieves."

Wesleyan Service Guild of the church will hold a bake sale in front of the Guild Shop beginning 9 a. m. Saturday, April 5.

Milne Memorial to be Dedicated on Sunday

Palm Sunday, at the regular noon service, the Rev. Harold C. Sweeney, vicar of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Woodstock, will bless and dedicate a new chalice and paten which have been given in memory of Frederica Milne. Both are of sterling silver, the chalice lined with eighteen carat gold. Designed by the Gorham Company, the chalice bears the inscription, "In memory—Frederica Milne."

Mrs. Milne was the leading spirit for a handful of people who five years ago established St. Gregory's in Woodstock. With no place of worship at that time, the homes of friendly people were first used for services. Later, the American Legion hall was used. Until Mrs. Milne converted the guest house on her property, now owned by Walter Balk, into a chapel in memory of her son, Caleb, a war casualty.

Shortly before her death, Mrs. Milne had given land for the new building. This proving inadequate in size, Miss Alice Wardwell, in memory of Mrs. Milne, gave the land on which St. Gregory's now stands.

Lana Is Longshot

A longshot is Lana Turner, up for her first nomination on her performance in "Peyton Place." Anna Magnani, a previous winner, is the fifth nominee for her role in "Wild is the Wind."

In the best actor division, the race is strictly between Alec Guinness (Bridge on the River Kwai) and Marlon Brando (Sayonara). The distinguished British actor holds the edge because Brando is a previous winner, although "Sayonara" is a prime favorite among women voters of the Academy.

That two-time Oscar winner in the supporting division, Anthony Quinn, is up for "Wild is the Wind."

Other Nominees

The other nominees are Anthony Franciosa for "Hatful of Rain" and Charles Laughton for "Witness for the Prosecution."

The best picture award parallels the best actor race. It is between "Bridge on the River Kwai" and "Sayonara" with "Peyton Place," "Witness for the Prosecution" and "12 Angry Men" also contenders.

Competition for the supporting actor awards is between two comeback artists—Sessue Hayakawa, the old time silent picture villain, for "Bridge on the River Kwai" and Red Buttons, the former TV comic, for his first dramatic role in "Sayonara."

Favorites for supporting actress is Carolyn Jones for "Bachelor Party."

Bulgarian May Be

replied: "You will be there and we will see for yourself."

Doubt over Bulgarian's future rose anew in connection with the election last week of the more than 1,300 members of the new Supreme Soviet.

Under party tradition, each Soviet leader is offered a number of candidacies from which to seek his Supreme Soviet seat. With approval of the hierarchy, he accepts the district he will represent. The number of candidacies is viewed as a measure of his prestige.

Out of Running

Before last week's balloting, Khrushchev received more than 600 nominations. Second place went to the 77-year-old figurehead President, Klement Voroshilov, and third to Kirichenko, who got more than 200. Bulgarian was virtually out of the running. And instead of the Moscow district he previously represented, he wound up as candidate from a remote area.

Many believe Bulgarian may face belated punishment for his reportedly lukewarm stand in last year's "anti-party" purge. After Khrushchev threw out former Premier Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich, there were reports that Bulgarian had not been very firm in support of Khrushchev during the crisis.

Some believed that Bulgarian thought things were going against Khrushchev and went over to the opposition, later backtracking in hopes of saving his job. Khrushchev would not be apt to forget such a switch.

Sands plans to preach Sunday, the beginning of the Holiest week in the Christian Year.

Special music will include "The Palms" by J. Faure. There will be distribution of palms. All are welcome. At 9:45 a. m. "The Church Observes the Sacraments is the basis for the discussion in the Adult class with a similar theme for all ages.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed on the night it was traditionally instituted—Maundy Thursday at 7:45 p. m. as the chief communion service. It will also be administered following the service of worship Easter Sunday for those unable to attend Thursday night. Both the confessional and the communion service will be abbreviated Easter Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Sands plans to preach on "The Unforgettable Christ" on April 3 at the 7:45 service of Holy Communion.

A song and story program with film strip—"Peter and the Resurrection" by E. J. Lorenz is scheduled for Easter Sunday evening April 6. There will be a period of favorite songs sung by the entire Sunday school preceding the formal program.

A class for adults who wish to know more of the beliefs of the Lutheran Church before they become members is being planned to begin Sunday evening after Easter, April 13.

The April meeting of the United Lutheran Church Women is planned to be held at the home of Mrs. Percy Crosswell, South Wall Street in Kingston, Holy Thursday at 2 p. m.

The service of worship on Good Friday is scheduled for 7:45 p. m. with the sermon theme, "Telte-lesta."

Frank Robertello was the chef for the supper in Zena Country Club Sunday night for members and their families. Marlin Klingler directed games for the younger set. The teen-agers cared for the smaller children while the meal was being prepared and while the cleaning up afterward was being done. Mr. Klingler conducted the business session at which the need for a nursery on Sunday mornings was discussed. The next meeting with the same committee is set for April 27.

The final vesper service of the 1958 Lenten season is planned for Thursday 7:45 p. m. The Rev. Mr. Sands will take for his theme, "Christianity Not a Religion of Fear." The choir will sing, "Love Lifted Me" by Howard E. Smith.

The senior choir will rehearse 8:45 p. m.

Army Launches Moon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The Army sent aloft another Explorer-bearing Jupiter-C satellite rocket in a burst of fire today.

The intent was to hurl a second metal tube 80 inches long and 6 inches in diameter—a 31 pound tube to the Army's Explorer I satellite—into an orbit 200 or more miles above the earth.

The Army hoped to be able to announce within little more than an hour whether the attempt was successful.

Third Launching

It was the third Jupiter-C launching in less than two months. The rocket team from Huntsville, Ala., fired Explorer I into its orbit Jan. 31. On March 5 a Jupiter-C propelled Explorer II to orbital altitude but the satellite failed to attain orbital speed because the 50-pound rocket in its fourth and final stage did not ignite.

Crusted white with frost congealed on the icy surface of its liquid oxygen tanks, the 70-foot Jupiter-C rocket blasted off at 12:38 p. m. The missile nosed straight and sure and climbed swiftly towards an overcast sky.

Visible for Minute

It was visible for about a minute but the roar of its powerful first stage engine could be heard for at least a minute after it disappeared into the thick blanket of clouds about 10,000 feet above the launching site.

The flaming tail of the rocket was visible in the clouds only for a brief instant.

The huge missile was left free of its launching tower about 45 minutes before the firing.

This was accomplished by rolling back the huge crane along the railroad tracks to a safe distance.

Spend Time in Classes

The 50-man group was divided into 10 sections and each section was accompanied by the principal on a visit to a pre-assigned school. The businessmen were guests at luncheon in the school cafeteria.

Approximately two hours was spent visiting all classes in each school and observing activities. It was noted that the program was a reversal of the Business Education (B-E) Day program when more than 250 teachers visited local industries and places of business in January.

4 of 5 Panel . . .

O'Neil, secretary of the Kingston P-TA Council, who spoke briefly, praising the board of education for its cooperation with public and Council, saying that the board has tried hard to plan well, has given information freely when asked for it and has always been "anxious" to obtain any information which would result in the improvement of the Kingston school system.

Consider Future

Mrs. Gilkey then introduced Mrs. Loren Sheldon of Hurley, a former member of the Council, who called attention to the broader program which would become available to children of the area under consolidation. Can we give tomorrow's leaders, scholars and scientists anything but the best? She asked.

Benjamin Schechter, former president of the Myron J. Michael P-TA, was then introduced by Mrs. Gilkey and urged the importance of an expanding curriculum which would become possible under consolidation.

Favors Small Schools

De Dea said the local department of education was urging consolidation, arguing that without consolidation there must be a sharp cutback of local facilities and that two school systems would be set up within five miles of each other—"two mediocre schools." He said he didn't believe this was quite true, that "we can have small schools and good schools."

He said that the 1,400 pupils who would be withdrawn if the city doesn't consolidate would be made up again within a matter of five or six years by the city's natural birthrate, that within a short time "we will be right back where we are now."

He assured his listeners that the Kingston Civic Association wanted the best education the community could afford but the organization wanted to do it as economically as possible.

Critical of Figures

De Dea was critical of the figures released by the board of education in connection with the proposed consolidation, questioning the estimated increase of $1.91 under consolidation and $12.05 without consolidation.

He said that under consolidation the increase of $1.91 over the present assessment rates would cost the taxpayer an additional $80,000 a year.

He argued that the transportation cost, which would be about $125,000 under consolidation, would cost the city 57 per cent or $71,000. Only 14 per cent of this bus transportation will be used by Kingston pupils, he said.

De Dea was also critical of assuming the bonded indebtedness of the rural area, now more than $2 million, whereas the city's bonded debt is only $665,000. After consolidation the taxpayer of the city of Kingston would assume about 57 per cent of all outstanding bonded indebtedness, or about $1,700,000, he said.

Asks About Debt

If we accept consolidation, we must assume that the department of education will build two junior high schools at their estimated figure of $4,000,000, plus interest charges for 20 years, $1,344,900, for a total of $5,344,900. There are also four issues for half a million dollars each which must be floated for additions to elementary schools which, with interest, amounts to $2,684,600 over a period of 20 years. This amounts to $11,094,450 that will eventually be paid by the already over-burdened taxpayer of both the rural area and the city of Kingston, De Dea stated.

Yerry said that the Ulster and Sullivan Building Trades Unions, consisting of some 6,000 construction workers and allied unions in the two counties, had adopted a resolution favoring consolidation.

The education of your children and my grandchildren, he said, is to be decided on whether we are willing to spend a couple of dollars more in taxes.

Returns in State Aid

He was critical of "phony conclusions" regarding state and federal aid, pointing out that about 56 per cent of the dollars paid by Kingston to New York State "comes back in direct dollars to the city" and a good portion of the remainder to agencies concerned with the welfare of our citizens—through the Department of Public Works, Department of Labor, Department of Corrections, Conservation Department, etc.

Yerry said there are 17 different New York State divisions operating in Kingston, employing a lot of people, that these bring "indirect dollars" back into the community. The children of their employees go to our schools, he said.

Through the proposed arterial highway, the Eddyville bridge, the Kingston-Rhincliff bridge, the dollars that don't come back directly are, nevertheless, employing area people and helping

Scarsdale Pastor Is Speaker at Lenten Services

REV. ROBERT W. YOUNGS

"From Dry Bones to New Life" is to be the topic of sermon by the Rev. Dr. Robert W. Youngs, minister of the Hitchcock Memorial Presbyterian Church, Scarsdale, when he is guest preacher Thursday, 7:30 p. m., in the last of three Lenten services at the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf Street and Tremper Avenue, of which the Rev. William J. McVey is minister.

The Rev. Dr. Youngs, who was heard in similar Lenten service at the church last year and was guest preacher at union Lenten service March 2, at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, is a man of remarkable power in presenting Christian truth clearly, logically and effectively. The Session of the church, sponsors these Lenten services annually.

For the musical program, the following numbers will be offered under the direction of Miss Edna Merriew, organist and choir director: organ prelude, "Adagio" by Matthews; anthem by the senior choir, "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled" by Dickey; solo, "King Ever Glorious" from Stainer's oratorio "The Crucifixion," to be sung by John McCullough, well known local tenor; and organ postlude, "Largo" by Handel.

support the local economy, Yerry said.

$435,000 Waiting, Ike Says

He said the state comptroller told him recently there's $435,000 waiting for us in state aid for education. What we don't take will be spent for the benefit of other communities, he said.

In progressive sections of the state they are voting bond issues for schools, he stated. In stagnant areas you find they are not voting the bond issues.

He was critical of the board of education for submitting the question of consolidation to the voters, since it is not required to do so. "Let's have an election every time we want our streets fixed," he quipped, drawing laughter from the audience.

Yerry also listed federal departments located in the city—11 of them—and several major defense companies bringing millions of dollars into the area.

He'd Accept Money

Of the $435,000 available under state aid, Yerry said, "I vote to take the money any time." He explained that it meant people with jobs and that he was for it.

He also pointed out that factories coming to Kingston would locate on the outskirts of the city, outside the city limits, and that if the city should go it alone educationally a lot of tax money would be lost.

Tucker said the principal consideration among teachers is the possible effect on education of "going it alone."

Educational Suicide, Ike Says

"Going it alone is educational suicide." He explained that consolidation is an opportunity to continue to improve the quality of education offered the children of Kingston.

He pointed that without consolidation there would be considerable retrenchment at curtailment of educational program. For instance, it might be impossible to offer a course in solid geometry or other courses in advanced mathematics.

Other areas of the curriculum—electricity, shop, English, etc.—would be curtailed or eliminated and a generally "inferior type of instruction would result."

Urges Yes Vote

He said that two school systems located a few miles of each other—which will result if the city votes against consolidation—"is a perfect example of waste in education."

"I urge each of you to get out and vote yes April 2."

A lengthy question-and-answer period followed the presentation by panel members.

Rhee 83 Today

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of Korea, celebrated his 83rd birthday today still striving to complete the mission he began as a young man, to bring freedom to all Korean people.

Thousands of people in this capital city turned out to accord him a lavish display of affection and respect. Congratulatory messages poured in from heads of state and diplomatic leaders throughout the free world.

he hoped for the widest possible publication.

The document may be released later today.

Spending — Eisenhower declined to speculate as to the eventual effect of anti-recession spending on the federal budget. But he said it appears spending will be larger in any event than was anticipated when his budget was prepared.

Summit Conference — Eisenhower said anew there must be careful preparation for any summit conference with the Russians.

Asked whether he believes we are closer to such a conference or farther away at this point, the President said that was a very difficult thing to sum up.

Farm Bill — Sounded out as to whether he may sign or veto a bill to freeze farm price supports for one year at 1957 levels, Eisenhower said with a smile he always is intrigued by reports speculating as to his action on specific legislation.

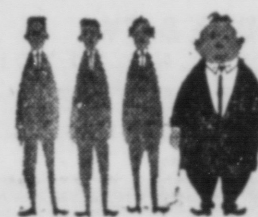

The farm bill, Eisenhower added, still is under study and already has been the subject of many conferences.

Food — A reporter told Eisenhower that many people actually are going hungry because of the business recession. He asked the President whether it would be possible to provide some of the government's surplus food for such people.

Eisenhower said he agrees that something should be done in cases where people are hungry. But he added the best solution is not always for the problem to be handled from Washington.

In that connection he noted that the administration program for extension of unemployment insurance benefits, sent to Congress yesterday, places emphasis on maintaining state administration of the program.

President Faces Fight on More Jobless Pay Time

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is an A-B-C on President Eisenhower's proposal—sent to Congress yesterday—to extend the jobless pay of people who have used up all the unemployment insurance (UI) they're entitled to.

He walked a tightrope to figure this one out. He's bound to run into a fight.

The number of weeks states pay benefits to their unemployed vary; so do the payments.

50 PC Extension
To relieve the hardship on the many thousands who have used or will use up their maximum number of weeks, Eisenhower proposes extending the number of weeks for them in all states by 50 per cent.

For example: A man who drew $25 a week in a state with a maximum of 26 weeks, would, if he had used up his 26 weeks, continue to draw $25 for another 13 weeks.

Eisenhower asked Congress to vote $600 million dollars for this with the program, to last until April 1, 1959. Complications begin right here. To understand why, look at the system as it works now:

Employers now, to provide money for the insurance fund, pay a tax on the first $3,000 of their employees' wages. The federal tax is three-tenths of one per cent. The state tax varies by states, from practically zero up to 2.7 per cent.

The federal government uses its tax to administer the program. But the tax each state collects goes into its own individual fund. It draws on its fund to pay benefits to its own jobless people.

Loan Not Gift
The 600 million dollars—as outlined by the administration—would not be a gift to the states but a loan. Eisenhower suggests that the states enter into agreements with the federal government to get from the special fund what they need to extend the UI payments of those employed who have exhausted their benefits.

But, if the states don't want to agree, then Eisenhower suggests the federal government set up its own machinery in those unwilling states and draw on the 600 millions to extend the payments anyhow.

How would it be paid back? Eisenhower suggests this:
If, at the end of four years a state on its own had not paid back what the federal government had put up, then the federal tax on its

Man-Sized Play Sets Two Tricks

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

East's jump to three diamonds was intended to crowd the bidding and it did exactly that. South did not want to bid as much as three hearts but he was not going to be shut out when he had such a good suit.

West's four club bid was also a push and no one can criticize North's bid of game. Actually the contract was a most reasonable one and the only thing that beat it was the spade singleton.

West opened his ace of spades. He knew that ruffs were the only way to beat the contract. West continued with the three of diamonds and East made the sort of play that separates the men from the boys.

He played the queen of diamonds. When it held the trick he gave his partner a spade ruff and got in with the ace of diamonds to give a second ruff and set the hand two tricks instead of one.

East's play involved a slight risk. There was some chance that West would not hold the king of diamonds. However, East was not risking the game. If West did not hold the diamond king the hand would not be set. East was only risking an overtrick or so against an almost certain extra 50 point penalty.

Cubs Graduation Features Scout Pack 7 Meeting

Bryant Burroughs and Frederick Wiswell were awarded Webelos badges Monday night at the monthly meeting of Cub Pack 7 at St. John's Episcopal Church.

The two boys were welcomed into Boy Scout Troop 10 by Scoutmaster William Quick who told them briefly what they could expect from Scouting. He presented their parents with the boys Tenderfoot badges which were pinned upside down until the Scouts perform their first good deed. At the same time two new cubs, Kevin Williams and Leonard Helmer were inducted into the Pack.

Used Scale of Akela

Cubmaster Ernest Dousharm used the Scale of Akela to show the importance of cubs and parents working together to make a well balanced Cubbing program.

The opening ceremonies were led by Warner Miller, assisted by Howard Hotelling carrying the American flag, and David Quick carrying the Pack flag. An official Cub Scout uniform inspection was conducted by District Commissioner Edward Safford and Neighborhood Commissioner Mel Ickes, who were aided by Assistant Cubmasters John Cook and George Dall. The group proved to be well uniformed and received a score of 98 per cent.

Advanced to the Wolf rank were Richard Davis, David Quick, Warner Miller and Howard Hotelling. George Brocco was awarded the Lion badge. Gold arrow points were received by Ronald Marchuk, David Quick, Warner Miller, Howard Hotelling and James Henion.

Arrow Points Awarded

Silver arrow points were awarded to Michael Dall, David Quick, Warner Miller, Howard Hotelling and Arthur Anderson. Denner stripes were presented to David Palmer and Tom Salzmann. David Quick received the assistant denner stripe. Frederick Wiswell received his two year service star and the following boys received one year service stars: Barron Colodi, James Henion, Ronald Fischang, Robert Elliott, Robert Cook, John Cook and David Boice.

The Pack Committee provided the entertainment for the evening as Cubmaster Dousharm related the story of Alaska, which is the March theme. As he told of the purchase of Alaska, the industries, methods of transportation etc., these points were illustrated "live" by the members of the committee.

The actors included Mr. and Mrs. George Dall and the Mesdames Muriel Short, Audrey Anderson, Evelyn Henion, Norma

Wiswell and Dorothy Dousharm. Then came the reading of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" by the new Assistant Cubmaster John Cook. This was pantomimed by the committee and included the Neighborhood Commissioner Ickes as the bartender.

Parents Meeting
At the parents' meeting, Mrs. Anderson was appointed chairman of a committee to plan the window display the week of May 10-17. Mrs. Helen Ohlson was appointed chairman of a bake sale during the first week in May. Dousharm announced five new committee members. They are Howard Hotelling, John Cook, Maurice Corrigan, Alton Whitmore and Gordon Boice. Den 6 had the largest percentage of parents present, and the award for the best handicraft went to Michael Dall.

Si Perkins believed in bringing his children up in the proper manner. He might even be called a strict disciplinarian. When his daughter fell in love with a young man for whom he had no use, he promptly put his foot down. He forbade her to ever see him again and when he saw signs of revolt in the girl's eyes went so far as to take all her clothes away from her each night.

But love will out. A few days later the local paper described the elopement. The headline for the story read: "Flees in Father's Trousers."

May—My fiancé is telling everybody in Canada that he is coming home to marry the most beautiful girl in the world. Edna—Too bad, darling, after being engaged to you for such a long time.

President Lincoln once dropped a few kind words about the Confederates. A woman flashed forth a question of how he could speak kindly of his enemies when he should rather destroy them.

Lincoln—What, Madam, do I not destroy them when I make them my friends?

Only a little man is troubled because someone should fail to appreciate his greatness.

Efficiency Expert—I am very gratified to see how many new men you have taken on since I installed my system.

Boss—Yes, I hired 'em to take care of the system.

Probably nothing in the world arouses more false hopes than one good cantaloupe.

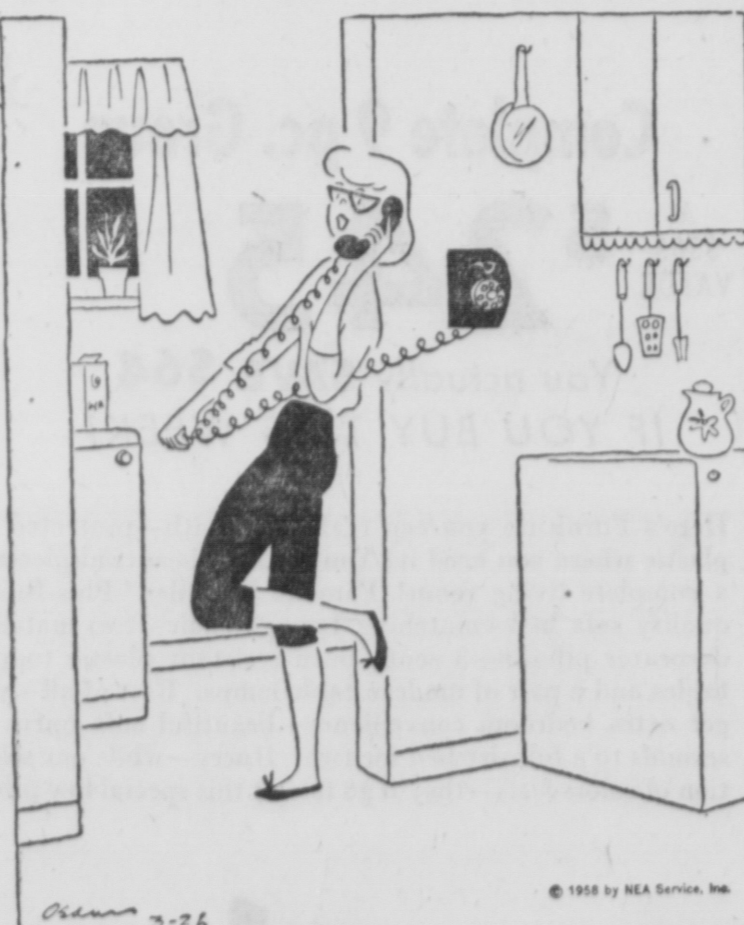

Mrs. Jones—My husband is an efficiency expert at the office.

Mrs. Smith—Just exactly what does he do?

Mrs. Jones—Well, if we women did what he does, they'd call it nagging.

Special Series on Consolidation

Kingston's Role Under Enlarged School Plan

(Editor's Note: Today's article on the consolidation issue gives instructions on voting for this important issue which comes before the voters of Kingston next Wednesday, April 2.)

In mid-February the Board of Education asked the P-TA Council of the Kingston schools if the Council would be willing to arrange, through the member P-TA units, to handle the referendum on Greater Kingston Consolidation. The P-TA Council and its affiliated units have agreed to accept this responsibility.

Voting hours will be between 12 noon and 9 p. m. on Wednesday, April 2. It is the intention of the P-TA units to have several representatives working during these hours on a shift basis to facilitate the handling of the vote. The Board of Education is grateful to the P-TA Council and affiliated units for handling this referendum since it will reduce costs substantially.

Simple Procedure

A simple procedure will be followed whereby any person presenting himself as an eligible voter will simply sign a ballot book, receive a printed ballot, vote 'yes' or 'no', and place the ballot in a ballot box. Following the closing of the polls at 9 o'clock, the P-TA officials will bring the ballots in the ballot boxes to the high school cafeteria. The ballots will be completely commingled and counted. The Board of Education and the public will be given a report of the results.

The places for voting are listed below:

Ward	Place of Voting
1, 10	School 8
2	School 6
3	School 5
4, 5	School 4
6	School 3
7, 8	School 2
9	Myron J. Michael
11, 13	George Washington
12	School 7

Eligible Voters

Residents are eligible to vote on the consolidation issue providing they meet these requirements:

Citizen of the United States, at least 21 years of age, an inhabitant of the state for one year next preceding the election and for the last four months a resident of the county and for the last 30 days a resident of the school district.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I wonder how many folks have copies of the "Olde Ulster" a historical and genealogical magazine published by editor, T. njamin Myer Brink back in early 1900's. It sold for 25 cents. I was able to buy two copies from the Rev. W. Brink of Walkill, son of the editor. They were published for about 10 years. I understand the editor was able to translate right from the Dutch records.

One advertisement from Forsyth and Davis, booksellers and stationers at 307 Wall Street is a historical item by itself. It reads as follows: "We have a few copies of the Dutch Church Records of Kingston (baptisms and marriages from 1660 through 1810) elegantly printed on 807 royal quarto pages, with exhaustive index containing references to 44,388 names, edited by Chaplain R. R. Hoes, U.S.N. and printed by the DeVinne Press, New York. But few Knickerbocker families can trace their ancestry without reference to this volume. Dr. Gustave Anjou's Ulster County Probate Records from 1665, invaluable in tracing ancestry—in two volumes. We also have a large line of Souvenir Postal Cards showing local scenes, including the Revolutionary Buildings."

No doubt some of the readers own these books. From time to time I am requested to trace ancestry, but as I have explained before, that is a specialty that is out of my line. I think, Mrs. Frederic (Lena K.) Snyder of 34 Lucas Avenue once told me that she has done some of that work. That takes a lot of patience in research and of course a good library along that line.

"Olde Ulsters" I have are of February and March, 1907, and cover the "Kocherthal Records" of the Palatines who fled from the ravages of the French in the beautiful valley of the Rhine to our picturesque Hudson in 1708 and settled at Quassaick Creek, Newburgh. In 1710 there were some 3,000 persons in that colony.

ony. Some went to West Camp in Ulster County and some went to Germantown in Columbia County. They were led by the Rev. Joshua Kocherthal, a Lutheran minister, and a Reformed minister, the Rev. John Frederick Hager. While on shipboard Kocherthal began the records bearing his name.

Editor Brink explains: "They are in German with Latin captions and sentences." A lady in Kingston began to translate them for Mr. Brink in the late 1890's, but was not able to finish the task. Through the favor of the Rev. Christian Krahmer, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Saugerties, Mr. Brink was able to get the translation completed. It seems they were the early records of the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church of West Camp. Mr. Brink printed them in his "Olde Ulster" in both German and Latin. I am giving all these details in case any of those related to these records read this column. The item begins with "In the year 1708, on board the ship, conspicuously bearing the name 'Globe,' but commonly called, 'The Globe,' the following were baptized by me, Sept. 14, Johann Hermann, son of Jacob and Anna Elizabeth Weber; Nov. 28, Carolus, son of Andreas and Anna Catherine Volck. Will Scientist or Pilot Be First to Reach Outer Space?

By STEVE LOWELL

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (AP)—In America's first tentative probing toward outer space, two men have soared 18 miles or higher.

If manned satellites come within a few years, either might become this nation's first space traveler. Yet they are a dissimilar pair. They have different backgrounds and they approached the new age differently. But they are united in the quest for knowledge of how man can exist far from his native planet.

Capt. Joe Kittinger, 29, is the eager enthusiast so typical of Air Force pilots. He won his wings in a fighter plane at 21, after a year and a half at the University of Florida. He was assigned to Germany, later was transferred to the Air Force Missile Test Center here as a training officer.

One of his first jobs was to lecture on parachute jumping. "I never had made a jump and felt that people didn't respect my advice for that reason," he says. So he won permission to go through jump school at El Centro, Calif.

Both Go to School
When he returned, he gave talks on his experiences. One of his listeners was Lt. Col. David Simons. Soon Simons was off for jump school, and Kittinger went along for a second round.

Simons, 33, is the intense, scholarly scientist and physician. Kittinger flew the photographic jet plane in 1954 when Co. John Paul Stapp made his record 632-mile-an-hour rocket sled run to test man's reaction to sudden acceleration and deceleration. In that race, incidentally, Stapp won.

When Stapp, now head of the missile center's aero-medical laboratory, set up man-high project for high ascension balloons, Kittinger applied. Stapp told him he's not only have to be a paracutist, but get a balloon pilot's license and spend 24 hours in a pressure suit to test his reactions. Simons, already a licensed balloonist with 65 hours of flying, became Kittinger's instructor. Kittinger flew 36 hours to qualify. He remembers one flight in which he moved only 11 miles in seven hours.

Both Ready for Flights
By last summer, Simons and Kittinger were ready for the big flights. Kittinger went to 96,000 feet in his balloon and a few weeks later Simons broke the record by soaring to 102,000 feet, in a bag with three million feet capacity.

Of becoming the first man into outer space, he says: "If everything were ready, I would go. I feel I have the qualifications—through parachute and balloon training and through survival training as a pilot and four years of subgravity flying."

Must Have Knowledge
Simons concedes that a pilot may be the first man into space, but he says: "Selecting the pilot is more than just selecting a man to do or die. He must be able to understand the scientific and engineering meaning of what takes place during the flight. The most valuable test pilots are those who are scientists and engineers."

"The man chosen must come back with as much information as possible. He must have a keen appreciation of the problems of the first flight. He must grow up with it. This doesn't exclude the pilot. He just must have other qualifications."

Simons concedes that a pilot may be the first man into space, but he says: "Selecting the pilot is more than just selecting a man to do or die. He must be able to understand the scientific and engineering meaning of what takes place during the flight. The most valuable test pilots are those who are scientists and engineers."

Loves Only Once, Marries 31 Times As Good Moslem

By ADIB ANDRAWES

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A 43-year-old Egyptian carpet dealer who believes women are not worth their salt, has married 31 times and is aiming to wed some more. Just because he strives to be a good Moslem.

Haji Rizk El Manakhly, father of 13 sons, is a dignified looking man with an average income. He traveled to Mecca for the Holy Moslem pilgrimage and for that reason possesses the title of Haji before his name.

Loved When He Was 'Green'
He says he does not believe in love, marriage for love. His only love marriage was at 26 when he was "green." That was his first marriage.

"It was my only love marriage out of the 31 and it did not endure long," Haji Rizk says. It was to a lady doctor whom he divorced after two months because she was "too busy to be a wife."

El Manakhly justifies his frequent marrying by quoting the Prophet Mohammed's words in the Koran: "A Moslem may take four wives at one time."

"I am a devout Moslem who has never disappointed God. I abide strictly by the rules of Islam. At the same time I am a great admirer of women. I desire them badly. So instead of taking the woman and flirting with her and thus committing a sin, I'd rather marry and be sure that I have not displeased God."

Haji Rizk, who presently has only three wives, says he has had no favorite wife.

"They are all alike to me. I do not discriminate between one and the other. I whisper romantically in each one's ear that she means all my life."

Nevertheless, he believes there must be some sort of discipline. He arranges to spend two days weekly with each of his three wives, and observes a day off for his personal affairs. Only six of his 13 children, sons of his present wives, are living with him.

Asked how he meets his wives, Haji Rizk boasts: "I have a strong personality and probably that is why I don't often have trouble with my wives. I am a man of strong determination when I want something I always get it."

Quickest marriage: At a tea room. He sent his card to the woman sitting next to his table. She responded, then left hand and were married two hours later.

Youngest wife: A 16-year-old school girl whom he divorced in two months after learning she was a flirt.

Busiest day: Divorcing four wives in one day and replacing them.

Divorce in Islam is not expensive. A Moslem who desires to divorce his wife pays about $2 to a Sheikh who hands out the divorce warrant.

Junior League Hears Education Consultant On Committee Work

Dr. Margaret Wingert, education consultant of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, met recently with the Kingston League's board of directors and committee chairmen to instruct them in their responsibilities and functions in relation to the League.

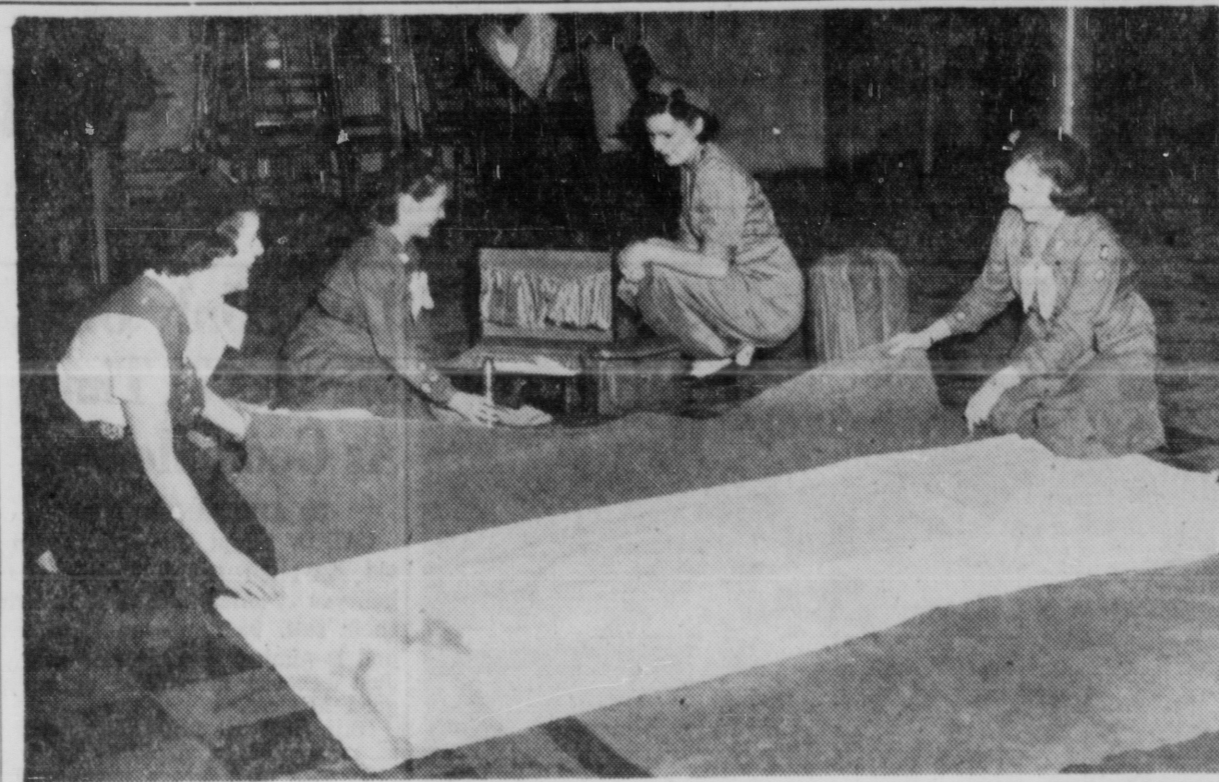

In addition to a resume of policies and standards of the American Junior League Association, Dr. Wingert also offered interesting techniques for effective board meetings and committee work. She spoke of the purpose of volunteer service and its place in the community.

Dr. Wingert concluded her talk by quoting from an article written by Dr. James Roby Kidd, director of the Canadian Association for Adult Education which appeared in a recent issue of the Junior League Magazine.

The quotation was: "The motive for community service is affection. These services are performed by professional persons and volunteers, the professionals being specialized. The professional derives his position from his science, the volunteer, because he is part of the community."

During the business meeting, Mrs. James Norton, president of Junior League of Kingston, reviewed the accomplishments of the League within the past year. Committee chairmen reported on the functions of their groups, reviewed present schedules and future programs.

CHILDREN IN A NEW CAR

Dear Mrs. Post: We have a new car and very often ask friends of ours to go for a drive with us on a Sunday afternoon, as they have no car of their own. They appreciate our asking them and we love to share our car with them but we are faced with a problem. These friends have two children and of course they are always brought along. We don't mind their coming but invariably the mother brings something along for them to eat and it is all over the car when they leave. The last time they were out with us the upholstery was all sticky from lollipops. I don't want to seem like an "old crank" but my husband and I take great pride in our new car and like to keep it just so. Will you please tell me how we can bring up the subject without hurting their feelings?

Answer: I think that if you explain your pride in your car and ask them please not to give the children anything that can make spots on the brand new upholstery until after the ride is over, it will not hurt their feelings.

Should She Return His Share

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé and I had a joint bank account to which we both contributed toward furnishing our future home. My fiancé, however, was killed several weeks ago in an automobile accident and I would like to know what to do about this money. Should I keep it all, or should I return his share to his parents?

Answer: I think you should offer to return his share to his parents, who will probably ask you to keep it.

When Bride's Parents Are Deceased

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother and father are dead, and my oldest brother will send out the invitations to my wedding. He is married. I would like to know if his wife's name should be included on the invitations, too, or do they go out only in my brother's name?

Answer: Correctly, the invitations should read, "Mr. and Mrs. Your Brother's Name, request the honour of your presence at the marriage of his sister," etc.

Do you have difficulty finding words to introduce your family and friends? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However leaflet E-17, "Introductions," describes what to say when introducing and how to answer. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Davitt of 25 Charlotte Street, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joanne Ellen, to Daniel Thomas Manning Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel T. Manning Sr., of Aulsebrook.

A summer wedding is planned.

Faculty Members Will Appear in Concert at New Paltz College

Six members of the faculty of the State University Teachers College in New Paltz, New York, will participate in a performance of Haydn's Toy Symphony at a concert by the College Band on Monday, March 31, in the College Auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

According to Dr. Victor Landau, associate professor of music and director of the band, Haydn's score calls for various bird whistles and noisemakers in addition to the usual instruments. Although they are employed for their humorous effect, Dr. Landau points out that the toy instruments should be manipulated with skill and accuracy. For the March 31 concert, these chores will be executed by Dr. S. C. Chu, associate professor of social science; Dr. Jack C. Cotton, professor of speech; Dr. David H. Kornauer, associate professor of geography; Dr. Floyd W. Parker, associate professor of physics; Dr. Robert W. Pyle, professor of Biology, and Dr. Gerion B. Robinson, associate professor of mathematics.

The program will also include Alford's "Colonel Bogey" March, from the film "The Bridge Across the River Kwai," and works by Frescobaldi, Brahms, Grieg, Ravel and Prokofiev. As an added attraction, a group of musicians from the U. S. M. A. Band of West Point will play the Mozart Quintet in E flat Major for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn, Bassoon and Piano, K 452. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

Prospective Bride Of Henry C. Page 3rd

MISS DOROTHY INEZ REESE

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Reese of Westmorland, Calif., announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Inez, to Henry Chase Page, 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Page of Woodstock. A June wedding is planned.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. George Krueger of California, early day Imperial Valley pioneer. Miss Reese is a graduate of Brawley Union High School, Brawley, Calif., class of 1957. She played the lead role in her junior class play, held class offices for four years and was student body secretary in her senior year. Miss Reese also held offices in Y-Teens, served in three offices in Bethel 117, Job's Daughters. She is now attending California Western University at San Diego, Calif., where she was chosen princess of the annual Christmas Ball. She will continue her studies after her marriage.

Her fiancé is an alumnus of Kingston High School and Hilder Preparatory School, Washington, D. C. After a semester at New Paltz State Teachers College, Mr. Page was engaged as soloist for the American Male Chorus. After serving three years in the U. S. Marine Corps, as chaplain's assistant in Korea, he enrolled at California Western University as a pre-theological student. In June, 1957, he was appointed pastor of the Winchester Community Methodist Church by Bishop Gerald H. Kennedy of the Southern California-Arizona Conference of the Methodist Church.

International Business Machines Corporation today announced the appointment of Raymond J. Armater, of Kingston, as manager of contracts administration at the company's Military Products Division plant at Kingston.

Armater joined IBM in August, 1948, as a clerk at the Poughkeepsie plant. Named manager of analyzing and stores there in 1950, he held a succession of managerial positions at IBM Poughkeepsie through February, 1955, when he joined the Kingston organization as assistant to the production manager of the production control general. Later in the same year he was named technical assistant in contracts administration, the position he has held until the current appointment.

A veteran of two years service with the U. S. Navy, Armater is a native of Kingston, graduating from the Kingston High School in 1943 and receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., in 1948.

Shoe Plant to Close

DE SOTO, Mo. (AP)—The International Shoe Co. plant in De Soto is to be closed about the middle of April, company officials say. About 300 persons work at the factory.

An official said the planned shutdown resulted from insufficient orders of casual women's shoes, which are made at the plant.

Company officials said an attempt would be made to find other jobs for the affected workers.

Dr. Nathan Levine Will Speak Before P-TA Meeting Here

Dr. Nathan Levine, coordinator of activities at Wiltwyck School, West Park, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of Temple Emanuel Parent-Teacher Association on Wednesday, April 2 at 8:30 p. m.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kalish, 73 Highland Avenue.

Dr. Levine has chosen for his topic of discussion the problem of discipline. His many years' experience in philosophy and the field of education make him particularly well versed on the subject.

A model Sedar is also planned for Temple Emanuel Religious School on March 30.

The Sedar ceremony commemorates the exodus of the Jews from Egypt in the days of Moses. Traditional Passover foods will be served, including Matzoh, the unleavened bread which Jews ate during their flight; "Charotzes," symbolizing bricks used in their slave labor; and bitter herbs, in memory of bondage.

Mrs. Kalish, and her committee, invites parents to accompany their children to the Temple for this inspiring ceremony which will be held Sunday, March 30.

Liz Rallies After Ordeal

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Liz Taylor, after the ordeal of seeing her husband buried, rallied today toward as near-normal existence as could be expected.

The beautiful brunette went through a harrowing experience yesterday in Chicago's Waldheim Cemetery. But it seemed to rouse her from the numbness that had hit her Saturday when she heard that producer Mike Todd and three others had perished in a New Mexico plane crash.

Near Collapse

A special airliner brought her and a party of 11 back to Hollywood last night after a funeral that was marked by Liz' near collapse and the outbursts of an estranged brother of Todd.

On the plane ride home, Liz seemed fully aware of the tragedy that had hit her. Earlier she had expressed disbelief, repeating over and over: "It can't be true. I know I'll wake up and find it never happened."

Dr. Rexford Kennemar, who accompanied her on the sad trip, said he was amazed at the stamina the actress had shown.

Todd's brother, Carl Goldbogen, a Long Beach, Calif., taxi driver, almost disrupted the ceremony before it got underway.

2,500 at Cemetery

He stormed at Dick Hanley, Todd's executive secretary, as the funeral party entered the tent that protected the group from the gaze of an estimated 2,500 persons milling in the cemetery.

Another brother of Todd finally quieted Carl and the simple Jewish ceremony went on, interrupted by the sobbing of relatives and two screams by Elizabeth.

Once, a mourner reported, Elizabeth tried to prostrate herself on the casket but was restrained by her brother, Howard, and her doctor.

Then she laid a hand on the bronze coffin and whispered: "I love you, Mike."

There were no reporters in the tent during the services. First information from inside the tent was that Elizabeth flung herself upon the casket but members of the family said this was not true. They said she had moved toward the casket but was restrained.

Sullivan, a patrolman on the Saugerties police force, and member of the Lynch volunteer company received a gift from the department comparable to the traditional gold watch given each retiring fire chief, presented by Mayor George P. Holmes.

Chiefs and fireman officials representing almost every fire company in the Town of Saugerties were present.

George B. Ohley, former Saugerties chief and former president of Hudson Valley Firemen's Association served as toastmaster. Other fireman officials introduced were: Joseph L. Murphy, president of Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association; Anthony Delisio, past president of the Hudson Valley Association and currently with the State Safety Division; William J. Kirk, superintendent of the Firemen's Home at Hudson; William Khachadorian, president of Hudson Valley Association and Morton Finch, past president of Ulster County Association.

Principal speaker was Charles M. Fales, of Haverstraw, secretary of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association and past president of the New York State Division of Firemen's Association.

Importance of Chief's Role
He cited the importance of making a good selection in a fire chief and listed the responsibilities of a chief.

Fales also commended the firemen's training program in New York State and urged every fireman to avail himself of the program.

Murphy, former Kingston fire chief, stressed the merits of the mutual aid system in Ulster

County and noted that it will be greatly improved when the county radio communications system is installed.

He also noted that there are more than 90 pumper trucks operated by volunteer firemen in the county.

Mother, Five Children Die In Ohio Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A young mother and five children perished today in an early morning fire in a two-story frame house here, police reported.

The house was ablaze when firemen reached the scene. They had to wait until there was practically nothing left of the home but a shell before going in to remove the bodies.

Father Escapes

The dead taken from the house a mile and a half from the downtown district were identified by police as James, 12; Barbara, 11, and Glenn, 7, children of Mr. and Mrs. James J. George; Mrs. Betty George Gallagher, 25, daughter of the George, and her two children, Deborah, 3, and Jimmy, 2.

George himself escaped the blaze but was hospitalized for treatment of burns.

He told police he was sleeping with his two sons when the fire broke out. He put the boys out on the porch roof but they apparently were driven back inside by flames which quickly enveloped the house.

George, 50, said he fell down a flight of stairs going to the first floor and got out through a bathroom window. Firemen said he suffered first, second and third degree burns over 50 per cent of his body.

Police said Mrs. Gallagher was separated from her husband. Mrs. George was staying at a relative's house when the fire broke out.

Cub Pack 5

Cub Pack 5 will meet Sunday, 3 p. m., in the Jewish Community Center. Cubmaster H. I. Kohan has recently completed the re-registration of the pack and has made the arrangements for insurance coverage.

The first meeting of the new Pack committee was attended by Cubmaster Kohan and Committeemen Stanley Kaplan, Jack Sheinvald and Morris Nussbaum. Seventeen Cubs were assigned to one of three dens and rules of procedure and programing were established. It was decided to assign each theme of the month to two couples, making them responsible for the activities to take place in the den and pack meetings and to feature for home study and work, achievements and electives for that month.

Parents of those cubs who have re-registered and who wish to enter children in cubbing are urged to attend the pack meeting Sunday. Theme topics will be selected at this meeting for the year round program starting in September. The activities for April centering about the subject, "Make America Beautiful," will be discussed. A trip, several home and den projects, and a pack meeting about this theme have been included in the plans.

U. S. Denies Sharp Decline in 1958 Dairymen Income

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agricultural Marketing Service said today 1958 income of the nation's dairymen will not be reduced as much as many farm leaders predicted.

Sharp reductions in returns from milk and butterfat have been forecast by some on the basis of the government's decision to reduce price supports, effective April 1.

In a report on market prospects for agriculture, the service said that some of the decrease in returns resulting from lower prices will be offset by an increase in the volume of milk to be produced.

Furthermore, it said, it won't cost dairymen as much as last year to feed their cows because feed prices are likely to continue lower than last year. Other dairy production costs are expected, the service said, to hold at 1957 levels.

"As a result, the reduction in the net income from the dairy enterprise probably will be less than indicated by the prospective reduction in prices," the report said.

Korean Veterans Told of Time Limit on School

Korean conflict veterans were reminded today by Peter B. Riley, state veteran counselor, New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and Howard C. Shurter, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency that under the provisions of Public Law 550 (Korean GI Bill) educational training must be initiated within three years after separation or discharge from the armed forces.

"There have been numerous cases where a Korean veteran has waited until the last minute to apply for school only to be turned down; and, before acceptance in another school could be arranged, has gone past his deadline," they pointed out.

Veterans in training in a school or college on a full time basis under PL 550 receive $110 a month, $135 if they have one dependent and $160 if they have two or more dependents. The monthly allowance is to cover tuition, books and living expenses. A veteran attending school on less than a full time basis will receive lower monthly rates.

Riley and Shurter further stated that Korean veterans should start making the necessary arrangements now if they expect to enroll in school next fall, and should take a personal inventory to determine just what their individual deadline is for starting such training. By starting now, the processing of the necessary applications and other papers can be completed well in advance of the start of the Fall semester and the veteran will be able to formulate his educational plans.

For information concerning your rights and entitlements under the Korean GI Bill or to any question you may have concerning your veterans benefits contact the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency office located at 32 Main Street, Kingston or any of the branch offices in Ellenville, Highland, Kerhonkson and Saugerties.

Question-Answer On Consolidation

Parents of city children want to be promised that they will not have to send their little children to any of the rural schools?

It is the feeling of the city Board of Education that the greater number of elementary children in the city will attend city schools. In any event, they will attend the school nearest their homes that will be able to accommodate them.

What will happen to our excellent athletic and music programs if we do not consolidate?

There is no question but what our excellent athletic and music programs would suffer by the removal of the large number of non-resident students who participate in these programs. It is probable that limited programs could be conducted on a limited scale. However, it is likely they would not be of the same high quality as enjoyed by these two departments at the present time.

May a person who rents vote on April 2nd on the consolidation issue?

Yes, anyone who may vote at a regular general election may vote on the consolidation issue. In fact, he need not have voted at the last general election as long as he meets the requirements of age (21), citizenship and residence requirements.

Townsend Back In Britain After 17-Month Tour

LONDON (AP)—Globe-trotting Peter Townsend flew back to Britain today but icily brushed aside questions about Princess Margaret, the girl he once hoped to marry.

Returning from a 17-month 60,000-mile world tour, the 43-year-old World War II air hero flushed, staggered for a second, and then turned brusquely away when asked whether he would see the 27-year-old princess.

Will See Mother

Townsend arrived from Brussels, where he completed his global trip Monday and where he wound up his career in the Royal Air Force in October 1956 as group captain and British air attaché.

The ex-airman told newsmen earlier he was going to England to see his mother and for business purposes. He emphasized that he had no intention of living here permanently.

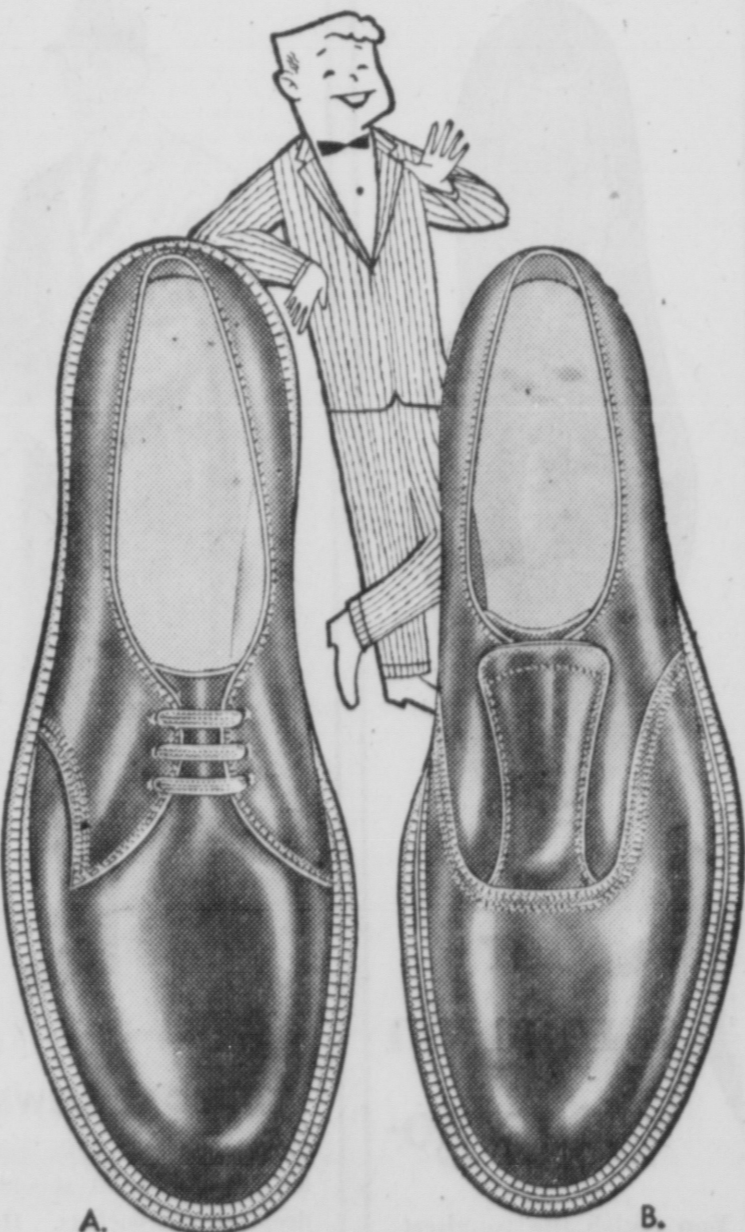

Townsend had been in England only once or twice since Oct. 31, 1955, when Princess Margaret announced she was placing duty before love and would not marry him. As far as is known, the princess and Townsend—divorced father of two sons—have not seen each other since then. Intimates say, however, that Margaret has corresponded with him, and there have been hints both want to see each other again.

Ray Regains Middleweight Crown Fourth Time on Split Vote

Stage Set for June Rematch in New York

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson beat Father Time and one-eyed Carmen Basilio last night to regain the world middleweight championship for an incredible fourth time.

The fight was tough in both cases. Robinson was exhausted at the end of the 15 rounds in taking a split decision. He was so limp he barred the press from his Chicago Stadium dressing room and held a news conference two hours later in his hotel suite after regaining composure and breath.

Age (he will be 38 in May) nearly caught up with him last night. But this was something 30-year-old Basilio, a 2-1 favorite, couldn't do.

Weight Edge
The fight actually was between a good welterweight and a good middleweight. Basilio came in at 153 pounds. Robinson weighed 159 1/2.

Robinson did most of his damage early. In the fifth round he stunned Basilio with three quick lefts to the face and a smashing right that had the champion a little rocky at the bell.

Cut Eye
It was then that a cut opened over Basilio's left eye. The eye became swollen shut in the sixth round and from then on he could be considered at the mercy of Sugar Ray.

But the Harlem Dandy couldn't put his courageous little opponent away. The steam of his hey-day was gone, and Basilio's raw tenacity made it all the tougher.

New York Rematch
The ingredients are present for another rematch, which the International Boxing Club hopes to stage in June in New York, Robinson willing.

Robinson, who can ham it up as well as the next TV performer, wouldn't say yes or no. He is expected to play the part of being on the brink of retirement to the hilt—until he and IBC President Jim Norris get down to financial facts.

In the meantime, Basilio will be demanding a rematch, although there was no such stipulation in their contracts.

Another Split
All the fanfare is there for a promotion. Basilio lifted the 160-pound title from the Sugar Man in New York last September on a split decision. This time it was in reverse, the referee again being in the middle.

Judge in Middle
In New York, the two judges went for Basilio and the referee for Robinson. Last night, Judge Frank McAdams saw it for Robinson 72-64 under the five-point must system and Judge John Bray scored it 71-64. Referee Frank Sikora voted for Basilio 66-69. The AP card favored Robinson 70-63.

Also is the shut-eye angle. Undoubtedly, Basilio would have been much more effective if the curtain had not dropped over his left eye. There were no knockdowns, but both fighters landed

Father Time Takes Toll

Boxing's Miracle Man - But

BY TONY CORAPI
Freeman Sports Staff

They were jammed in the isles of Albany's Palace Theater last night for the Carmen Basilio-Ray Robinson middleweight championship fight in Chicago. The majority of more than 3,500 persons who paid an exorbitant $3.50 to get by the ticket takers filed out of the emporium dejected after the expected Sugar verdict was announced.

But, victory for the four-time winner of the 160-pound crown, was evident after Robinson's well placed left jab closed the shutter on gallant Carmen's left eye. The Harlem Dandy, showing the effects of age and some good body plating in the late rounds, draped over Basilio a good portion of the fight.

Heavy Load
Carrying this weight, and fighting with just one eye, were too much for the good little man from Chittanooga, a glorified middleweight who attempted to keep the title he fought so hard to get last September.

We were Basilio from the start, and it was costly to back up that conviction. But should the two meet again, and it is likely that they will, we'll be riding with the onion farmer.

But, after watching these two combatants know at each other for 15 rounds, the handwriting is on the wall that "Sugar man" can't go through another such fight without suffering some physical harm.

Miracle Man
Right now, he is fighting's remarkable man of the age. He has added more prestige to his already brilliant ring record. His last two fights with Basilio, providing Uncle Sam eases its hold on his purses, will net him plenty. This booty added to his already established enterprises is more than enough to see the "miracle man" through to his reward.

Sharpness Gone

The sharpness which earned Ray the title as the greatest pound-for-pound fighter in the world is gone. He missed too much with those swooping uppercuts and vicious left hooks which rang the curtain down on many a fighter during his 17 years in the squared circle.

But he had enough ring savvy left to be the only fighter ever to regain the title four times, and avert successive defeats by the same opponent. He is a remarkable man. But another fight with Basilio will do him no good. We predict right now that "Sugar Ray" will announce his retirement very shortly. Jim Norris won't like it, but that'll be alright with Robby since the two don't see eye to eye on promotional matters.

Down Bruins, Montreal Wins

Rangers Off to Fast Start In Stanley Cup Playoffs

By The Associated Press

The New York Rangers, off to a fast start in their semifinal Stanley Cup series against Boston, will have to get along without Captain Red Sullivan for the remainder of their best-of-seven set.

In the opener of the other semifinal match, the Montreal Canadiens big guns used rookie Phil Goyette's three-goal hat trick to rout the Detroit Red Wings 8-1.

Garden Packed
The second-place Rangers whipped Boston 5-3 last night before a capacity 15,925 in Madison Square Garden in New York. But their enthusiasm was tempered by the triple fracture of the jaw suffered by Sullivan, the club sparkplug.

Sullivan, who fell heavily to the ice when he was checked by the Bruins' Vic Stasiuk midway in the first period, was resting in a hospital today. His jaw was to be wired by a dental surgeon. There is a possibility he may be returned for the final National Hockey League playoff if New York manages to eliminate the Bruins.

Creighton Hot
Veteran Dave Creighton was the Rangers' big gun last night. He scored twice and assisted on one of three first period goals that enabled the second-place Blueshirts to come from behind.

At Montreal, the Canadiens, National Hockey League champs, got the jump on the Wings in the best-of-seven series with five spectacular goals in the first period, led by the veteran Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

Rocket Explodes

Before the game was five minutes old, the 36-year-old Rocket, idol of Montreal fans, had exploded for two goals and the rout was on.

Jean Beliveau, Bernie (Boom) Geoffron and Dickie Moore—all big names in Montreal's scoring power over the last few seasons—had a hand in one of the worst drubbings suffered by a team in the annual post-season competition.

The Red Wings' lone goal came on a power play in the second period, Johnny Wilson letting to a 40-footer that was screened all the way and plopped into the net behind startled goalie Jacques Plante.

Both play-off series resume Thursday night.

AUSTIN, Tex. (NEA)—Coaches say it will take a world record to win anything in the sprint relays of the Texas Relays, March 28-29.

Artie Gribbins Named To Section 9 Squads

Artie Gribbins, Ontario Central's outstanding cager, was named to the second team of the Section Nine tournament selected by the Middletown Record sports department.

The first team was dominated by Liberty and Warwick, which placed two players each. The only outsider was Montgomery's John Tompkins, who was worthy of the honor on the basis of his all-round play with virtually kept his team in the running until Warwick came on the scene.

Gribbins, however, paced the Indians in its victory over Montgomery. Joining Lawrence and Tompkins on the first five are Ed Winchester and Don Bainbridge, Warwick; and Kevin Moloney, Liberty.

Racing Booms as Baseball Quits N.Y.

BY JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, (NEA)—Robert Fulton Kelley is a conservative gentleman who runs to tweeds and soft tones and you would never confuse him with Nathan Detroit of Guys and Dolls.

But in the strange land that is the New York sports world this season, Kelley, and the Greater New York Association race tracks he represents, have become like the man with the only floating crap game in town. And what a town!

New York, the huge city which always had three major league baseball clubs, now is down to one, the Yankees. It is, when you examine this implausible situation, the biggest break racing here ever has received.

"We expect," Kelley says, "to get quite a few people who normally would be seeing the Giants and Dodgers."

An understatement. In the 210 days of New York racing, which starts with Bold Ruler's appearance in the Paumonok Handicap, Mar. 28 at Jamaica, the horses will be the only wheel in town for a startling length of time.

The Yankees, with 77 away games, plus 20 night contests at home, will leave racing unopposed as the city's only daylight sport for long periods.

With this, an economist attempted to probe any recession is likely to find his slide rule out of joint if he mixes in expected race betting figures. Last season, 4,714,826 paid customers bet $416,875,863 at New York tracks. This year, despite any reported shortages of money, these figures should be substantially increased.

The same goes for the night harness plants, Roosevelt and Yonkers Raceways. Last year they drew a total of 4,547,211 people who bet $311,908,063.

"We shall be delighted," George Morton Levy of Roosevelt says, "to accommodate any sports fans who have no baseball left to watch."

Trotting attendance and handle should be staggering this season. The Yankees, of course, should get awesome attendances, but people are just starting to realize the void left in daily sports fare here and it will take only a little promoting to have them flocking to the tracks.

Darkest Africa Show by Taber Slated March 31

Darkest Africa may be seen at its brightest when Wallace Taber, internationally known big-game hunter, author and photographer brings his double-feature, all-color program of hunting and fishing to Saugerties Municipal Auditorium Monday, March 31 at 8 p. m.

The big-game show is another event sponsored by Saugerties Fish and Game Club for the benefit of its clubhouse fund raising campaign.

Far-Traveled

The far-travelled former newspaper reporter spent six months herding a pair of jeeps across Africa's fantastic veldt to record the features which he narrates personally.

His "Safari Saga" is a feature-length Kodachrome starring African wildlife and native life never previously photographed. The film features ponderous elephant, vindictive Camp buffalo, captivating giraffe, gazelle and dozens of Africa's little-known wildlife presented in unforgettable passing parade.

The second film, "Samaki," also a feature-length color movie shows never before photographed fishing in the headwaters of the Nile. Giant hippo, treacherous crocodile and an unknown angler's paradise make this feature entertainment unsurpassed, according to Harold E. Van Voorhis, president of Saugerties Fish and Game Club.

150,000 Thrilled

Over 150,000 persons thrilled last winter to Wally Taber's superb all-color program, he said.

Advance tickets are available from club members and are popularly priced for whole-family attendance. Student tickets for those under 16 are half-price.

Ross H. Smith, Cornell University lacrosse coach, was an All-America fullback on Springfield College's soccer team of 1935.

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals is almost 27 years old and is in his fourth season in the majors.

But he's a full-fledged "phenom" this spring.

He's the fellow who could propel the Cards into the pennant. He had a bad year in '57 (.265), and considering the fact that the Redbirds finished eight games behind the Milwaukee Braves, Boyer's anemic batting average certainly could take some of the blame.

But it's a new year, and a new Boyer has emerged. For one thing, he now is a full-time center fielder. Until now, he has spent most of his labors at third base.

Raving
Manager Freddie Hutchinson and coach Terry Moore (whose duty it is to complete the transformation), are raving about this new look.

Hutchinson thinks Boyer has found out that life in the majors can be grim, indeed, if he doesn't hustle. He did pretty well in '56 and began to take it easy last year. Now, Hutch says, there is no harder worker in camp.

Moore says Boyer is getting enough confidence to play center field shallow.

Boyer had one hit in three tries against the Los Angeles Dodgers yesterday, but it went for naught. The Dodgers won the game, 8-0 but it was close until the ninth when they scored six runs off Bob Kuzava.

Neal Homers

Charlie Neal hit a home run in the outburst but it marked the first homer of the spring by a Dodger who figures on being in the starting lineup opening day.

There were a couple of sharp pitching performances and some long-distance clouting in the other games.

At Tampa, Bob Purkey went all the way, doling out only five hits as the Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Washington Senators 3-1. Dave Sisler ran his hitless pitching streak to nine innings while the Boston Red Sox edged the Braves 4-3. The Philadelphia Phillies dropped the New York Yankees 5-4 at Clearwater.

Robinson Blasts Two

Brooks Robinson hit two home runs to lead the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-5 triumph over the Cleveland Indians at Tucson; big Duke Long blasted three homers in the Chicago Cubs' 15-4 slaughter of the San Francisco Giants at Phoenix, and the Kansas City A's licked the Detroit Tigers, 8-6, at Lakeland, with each team clubbing three homers.

Sisler Continues Hitless Streak

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Dave Sisler, Boston's bespectacled 6-4 righthander, is flashing the form which made him one of the Red Sox' top prospects two years ago.

The son of Hall of Famer George Sisler stretched his hitless pitching streak to nine innings yesterday as the Red Sox posted their second victory over the world champion Milwaukee Braves, 4-3.

Sisler has retired 27 straight batters since a St. Louis player led off against him and reached on an error last week. He hurled four innings against the Cardinals and five against the Braves.

The Yale-Harvard basketball rivalry started in 1901.

Sugar Hart and 'Tombstone' Vie On TV Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Welterweights Garnett (Sugar) Hart and Charley (Tombstone) Smith clash tonight for a chance at moving higher into the division rankings and nearer to a title bout.

The two figure to put on a good show for those at ringside in the arena and for the national television audience (ABC, 10 p. m.) in their scheduled 10-rounder.

Smith, 24-year-old Los Angeles resident, is an aggressive fighter given to punching in bursts. Hart, 22, of Philadelphia, is a standup fighter who likes to counterpunch.

Both have power. Hart has 19 knockouts in his 24-3-1 record. Smith has stopped 12 opponents in compiling a 25-5 record.

Coffey Sparks YMCA Playoffs With 29 Points

Jim Massa hit with a jump shot with one second left to give Boulevard Gulf a 76 to 74 upset victory over Godwin's last night in a YMCA playoff contest.

The battle was close from the start as the lead changed hands several times before Godwin's, paced by Al Long, Joe Dittus and Monk Richards, took a 59 to 54 lead to start the final period.

A hot hand by Bruce Coffey in the final stanza which netted him 15 points, was the difference. He scored 29 counters and teamed with Nick Nagelo for 51 of the winning team's points.

The two clubs fought to a 20-all first period tie. It was 38-37 at the half. The lead exchanged six times in the final period before Massa's jump decided the issue.

The scoring was divided for Godwin's, with Long's 17 high.

Florida Derby Stresses Three-Year-Old Trouble

BY JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — "I train a horse," Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons always says, "for a whole campaign, not just one race."

"If you do the job right, he is still running on November. But a three-year-old is such a tricky proposition you never know what's going to happen."

The $100,000 Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park, Mar. 29, is as good an example of the troubles of handling a three-year-old as can be found.

Mr. Fitz's hope, Misty Flight, has been shipped back to New York for a rest while they try and figure out what's wrong with the colt. Nadir, the big, strapping winner of The Garden State last year, won't be in it, either. Bull Hancock's big guy flattened out in the Flamingo stretch and seemed to be ailing.

Not present, too, is Jewel's Reward, whose stretch duel with Tim Tam in the Flamingo was a knockout. Kentucky Pride, Tim Tam's front-running Calumet partner, is in the barn.

This leaves Gulfstream with Tim Tam, an odds-on favorite to give Ben and Jimmy Jones another $100,000 jackpot; Li'l Fella, strong at two last year; Gray Monarch, Lincoln Road, Day Court and Whitley.

The last named is a comparative newcomer to the picture, but the mere fact that Max Hirsch, the one they call Foxy Maxie, has shipped him from winter quarters at Columbia, S. C., is enough to intrigue.

Wheels have been flying off the better three-year-old prospects in wholesale lots. And before you judge what's left now, it must be kept in mind that as often as not the important name in March and April is just an added start-er later.

At this time last year in Florida, Calumet seemed to have it made. Iron Liege, Gen. Duke and Barbizon were on the track. But the day before the Derby at Churchill Downs, Ben and Jimmy Jones stood mournfully in front of Gen. Duke's stall and decided

Cubs Blast Giants

Ernie Banks Clouts 9th Homer, Long Hits 3

MESA, Ariz. — Amazing Ernie Banks, the Chicago Cubs' slugging shortstop, already has smashed nine home runs in spring exhibition games for his fastest spring start ever.

Notoriously slow in getting underway, Banks didn't hit high gear until mid-summer last year but still the 175-pound infielder banged 43 homers, just one back of the Aaron.

Currently with more spring homers than any other major leaguer for 1958, Ernie came to the Cubs camp here intent on getting off faster than he has in the past. He listened carefully to the Cubs special batting coach Rogers Hornsby.

"In the past I've had a tendency to swing at ball balls early in the working with Hornsby to determine the strike zone better. And the horse's bad foot would keep him out.

Iron Liege took it, but later in the year Bold Ruler, Gallant Man and Round Table monopolized the field.

Putting a young horse is an demanding a test as the mile and an eighth Florida Derby this early in the year goes against many trainers.

But they can't turn away from the big purse, so in goes the horse — and a 10 per cent-minded jockey gives him a no-hold ride.

The Dodgers' quest for lebensraum in the west not only cost Brooklyn a ball club . . . but Emmett Kelly a job . . . because the famous clown who played before the empty pews of Ebbets Field last year was deemed to small an order to serve up in the Los Angeles Coliseum . . . where the players will look like gnats . . . so when Kelly goes back to circus work next month, he'll be recruiting a troupe of clowns to sell as an act.

Vada Pinson may be the new rage of Florida . . . but Birdie Tebbetts was selling him as the new Redleg right fielder in January, when everybody reacted, "Who?!"

In some quarters of the National Basketball Association, George Yardley, the new all-time season scoring king, is called The Germ . . . because the skinny Detroit Piston always seems to be carrying a cold—whooping, coughing, sneezing—until the second they put a ball in his hands . . . It comes as no surprise that George, with the built-in pogo stick, was once an All-American volleyball player.

Biggest disappointment of Yardley's career: He wouldn't turn pro for two years (and lost out on a bundle of dough) because he wanted to play in the '52 Olympics . . . so in the last second of the last game before the Olympic Trials he broke two bones in his right hand driving for a basket . . .

If you can believe Sugar Ray Robinson, the main reason he's still sticking his neck out in a ring is "to make some money to do some things I got in mind for my son." . . . And in defense of antiquity, Ray makes a convincing spiel with such arguments as Jersey Joe Walcott and Archie Moore, promising he won't come apart at the seams, like a glove Carmen Basilio tugged into New York recently . . . this was a mammoth four-tooth leather memento (as Fighter of the Year) which he hauled into the Big Town, not to intimidate Sugar Ray, but to get the stitching repaired.

Fancy yet, the Rocky Marciano Enterprises in Florida, with the ex-champ sending us his stationery with the raised print in fancy gothic lettering . . . and dictated on an electric typewriter . . . listing "Farming, Processing, Investments." . . .

One school that isn't after Jerry Lucas, the all-everything Mid-dletown, O., basketball giant, is North Carolina. . . . "He's too good," says Frank McGuire, "and too far away." . . . If we got him, there'd be a terrific fuss" . . . besides, he adds with a wink, "We're doing all right with the boys we got from New York."

The old Perffesser, Casey Stengel, broke down and admitted he used to be a pitcher, too. . . . "Back in the era of the dead ball," he croaked, "—only I was thrown' the lively ball." . . .

Big rumor along the pro football trail is that the retirement announced by Norm Van Brocklin was only from the Rams . . . since there was an uncomfortable situation between him and Coach Sid Gilman . . . and that the Flying Dutchman may wind up in the camp of the Philadelphia Eagles . . . where Buck Shaw is desperately seeking quarterback help. . . .

Medical advice indicates Maurice Stokes of the Cincinnati Royals was stricken with the eastern virus of encephalitis . . . not the more deadly type you get west of the Rockies . . . and therefore has better hope of complete recovery. . . .

Ave Hit on Conservation

ALBANY (AP)—The veteran chairman of the Assembly Conservation Committee charged today the Harriman administration was making a "political football" out of conservation.

Republican Assemblyman Leo A. Lawrence of Herkimer County said the Democratic administration had deferred action on increases in fees for hunting and fishing licenses "because this is an election year and the governor's chances for re-election might be damaged."

Lawrence said Conservation Commission members for 18 years, said the Conservation Department had waged an extensive campaign on the need for a fee boost to obtain $1,750,000 in new funds for programs of the division of fish and game.

But the department later "backed away from its license-increase proposal," Lawrence said. Lawrence said Conservation Commission members for 18 years, said the Conservation Department had waged an extensive campaign on the need for a fee boost to obtain $1,750,000 in new funds for programs of the division of fish and game.

of 1957, that sets up a new program to improve relations between farmers and sportsmen. It goes into effect next Tuesday.

Current annual fees are $1.75 for hunting licenses and $2.25 for fishing licenses. A $1 increase had been discussed.

Because there will be no increase, Lawrence said, the Legislature is making a special allocation of $155,000 for the first year of operation of the new wildlife act.

Concede Figure Skate Title To Jenkins

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Most of America's figure skating insiders assembled here were conceding David Jenkins a repeat national title today, but the crewcut little champion said anything could happen.

Jenkins, the trim 20-year-old world titlist, whipped through a half hour workout at the Minneapolis Arena last night shortly after arriving in town.

His triple spins drew gasps of admiration from the handful of watchers—but Jenkins seemed to have no notion of an easy road to another national championship. "It was very close in Paris," the Colorado College medical student said of his recent world victory. "Tim Brown was very strong and there is no reason to believe he won't be again."

Gossip Leads to Tip

12 Youths Held For Beating of Bronx Teacher

NEW YORK (AP)—Schoolboy gossip overheard by a patrolman has led to the arrest of 12 boys, all members of a Bronx youth gang, on charges of beating a school teacher.

The boys, all Negroes, reportedly admitted slugging the teacher, Arthur Santos, with a softball bat while exhilarated by wine.

Playground Beating
Santos, a 36-year-old white minister awaiting ordination, was beaten in the playground of a Bronx park when he tried to protect his students from being robbed on Monday. Santos had taken his 35 white pupils, boys and girls aged 9 to 15, to the playground for a physical training class.

The 12 boys, all members of "The Sportsmen" gang, were rounded up on information supplied by Patrolman Edward Morgan.

Morgan, while on duty yesterday outside a junior high school near the park, overheard students talking about the attack. Aest. Dist. Atty. Martin Todel said, and passed his information to detectives, who conducted the roundup.

Six Former Inmates
Six of the boys, 16 to 18 years old, are former inmates of the Otisville Reformatory. Six juveniles—all under 16—were students at a special city school for problem children.

The six older boys were charged with assault and robbery and the younger six with juvenile delinquency.

Bundestag Okays Arms

BONN, Germany (AP)—After a violent four-day debate, the West German Bundestag voted last night to let West Germany's troops arm with nuclear weapons as part of Western Europe's defense. The government's majority in the lower house had made passage a certainty despite bitter opposition.

The motion sponsored by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats went through without a roll call. Earlier the Bundestag rejected 269-194 a motion espoused by the Free Democrats and Socialists to bar atomic weapons and NATO missile bases from West Germany.

Carbondale Man Serious After Broadway Mishap

Joseph Duffy, 26, of Woodlawn Avenue, Carbondale, Pa., struck by a car on Broadway last night, was reported in serious condition at Kingston Hospital today.

A police report at 11:03 p. m., noted that Duffy who is employed here had suffered head injuries and a leg fracture, when he was struck while crossing Broadway near Downs Street, by the car of Robert Bruno, 27, of 4448 Wilder Avenue, Bronx, headed north on Broadway.

Bruno, police said, has been staying at a local rooming house, 260 Clinton Avenue.

Duffy, whose condition, in last night's police report, was said to be critical, was taken to the hospital in a Schultz ambulance. His father, at Carbondale, was notified of his condition.

Police noted that it was raining at the time of the mishap.

In another mishap reported at 7:10 p. m., Thomas Byrnes, 47, of 29 Mary's Avenue, reported a neck injury. The report said the car driven south on Broadway by Byrnes was struck in the rear by the sedan of Samuel Glasner, 63, of 14 Len Court.

3 Girls Suffocate

TAMAQUA, Pa. (AP)—Three girls ranging in age from 11 to 16 suffocated today when trapped in a third floor bedroom after a fire broke out in their wooden, frame house.

Eight other members of the family of Freeman Betz of Tamaqua escaped. They were sleeping on the second floor.

The dead girls were identified as Nancy, 16, Wanda, 13, Sandra, 11.

Cases Are Heard In City Court

City Judge Aaron E. Klein Tuesday night sentenced John D. Welch, 23, of 10 Pine Street, charged with possessing obscene pictures and booklets, to pay a fine of $150 or spend 90 days in jail.

The fine was paid. Welch was also arrested for alleged violation of a white line on Broadway, but that charge was dismissed. He pleaded guilty on the other charge today.

Welch was arrested early March 16 by Officers Gurnsey Burger Jr. and Edward Leonard. He forfeited $50 bail through failure to appear in court March 17, but the bail was reinstated after he was brought in on a bench warrant.

Joseph Peter Shumalski, 16, of Box 61, Rifton, charged with second degree forgery, waived examination and was held for grand jury action on a charge of second degree forgery.

Shumalski was arrested last Friday by detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons after he had allegedly given forged checks of $15 and $30 in purchases made at Kingston. He was represented in court by Attorney Thomas F. Saccoman.

Alphonso Williams, 28, of Colonial Gardens, who was arrested early Sunday on a second degree assault charge, pleaded guilty to a third degree assault charge and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or spend 30 days in jail.

The plea to the lesser charge was on consent of the district attorney's office. The fine was expected to be paid.

Williams was arrested by Officer John Crespin following a report of trouble on lower Broadway. Police were told that Williams had struck Benny Cruz, 27, of Camp Greenkill, Route 32, in the face. The latter was treated at Kingston Hospital. Assistant District Attorney John L. Larkin appeared for The People in court last night and today.

Harriman Urges U. S. Aid for State Thruway

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman said today it would be "a glaring injustice" if the federal government refused to consider New York's Thruway in allocating highway aid to the state.

Harriman noted that the Thruway had been built as a part of the interstate network prior to the current federal highway program. If the federal government failed to compensate for such building, he said, it would in effect be "penalizing those very states that have had the foresight and the initiative to provide the nation with the sort of transportation system it so desperately needs."

Harriman's remarks were in a statement prepared for delivery at a hearing of the House Committee on Public Works. James F. Wright, assistant superintendent of the State Department of Public Works, was to present the statement for the governor.

Harriman remained in Albany, where the State Legislature was in the closing hours of its 1958 session.

The governor endorsed a bill that would allow states federal aid for new highway mileage equivalent to that of state-financed toll roads in the interstate system. Rep. Charles Buckley, New York Democrat, is the bill's sponsor.

Toll roads are not eligible for federal assistance under the current program.

Lefkowitz Plans Own Drive on Business Frauds

SCHENECTADY (AP)—Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, citing a continuing increase in business frauds, said today he would launch personally a new drive to alert consumers.

Lefkowitz said he and his staff would use "the media of newspapers, radio, television and public appearances" to inform New Yorkers on the shady tactics he said were now in use.

In February, Lefkowitz reported, his department obtained 35 injunctions restraining from fraudulent practices—a record for one month.

The attorney general made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at ceremonies commemorating the 15th anniversary of the commissioning of the United States Naval Supply Depot at suburban Scotia.

"When doubt or suspicion affects the investor," Lefkowitz said, "the entire structure of our economy is weakened."

"For that reason if no other, we must make certain that the dealings and business practices of those who offer securities, goods and services and otherwise deal with consumers are not such as to create these doubts."

Released on $25 Bail

Pasquale Petramale, 32, of Valley Street, Kingston, was arrested at Boice's Lane, Town of Ulster Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Peter Peterson on a third degree assault charge. On arraignment before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly he was released in $25 bail for appearance Thursday at 2:30 p. m. before Justice Reilly. The complainant, Timothy Doyle, 206 Tenbroeck Avenue, charges that he was assaulted by defendant, knocked down and injured. The act is alleged to have taken place in the Town of Ulster.

Leaves for Moscow

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth of Belgium, the first member of European royalty to pay an official visit to Soviet Russia since the 1917 revolution, left for Moscow today aboard a Soviet TU104 jet airliner. She will stay three weeks.

SAMAKI

That's Wallace Taber and a Nile-River monster of some sort causing that Wright & McGill glass rod to describe a tortuous arc.

Fishing in a part of the world that most sportsmen consider only in terms of big-game hunting, globe-trotting Wallace Taber documented a colorful fishing epic titled SAMAKI. His is the first motion picture ever to depict the unsurpassed angling opportunities of the "dark" continent.

Giant hippo, treacherous crocodile and surging currents beneath breath-taking water falls assisted the intrepid movie-maker in making a thriller out of a highly educational fishing film.

To round out his personal appearance Monday, Mar. 31 at Saugerties Municipal Auditorium, Wallace Taber will also present his living-color wildlife extravaganza — SAFARI SAGA.

Never previously have two such colorful pictures been billed on an American program. That, plus Taber's colorful narration in a style Los Angeles critics last winter dubbed "glowing," make for an evening's entertainment for the whole family. Turn-away crowds are commonplace with Wallace Taber's personal appearance. So his sponsors—Saugerties Fish & Game Club—suggest you get your tickets early.

Bomb Crews Not

Yet Reassured on

Accidental Drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — New safety measures ordered to prevent any further accidental dropping of nuclear bombs apparently reassure everyone except the crews of the bombers.

The chances probably are not high that the crew could jettison a bomb quickly if plane trouble were to develop during the critical moments of takeoff or landing.

Measures Taken

Following the latest of a series of accidents—none of them fatal and none resulting in nuclear detonation—near Florence, S. C., on March 11, the Defense Department said that the Air Force had "taken interim measures to assure that a similar malfunction" of a bomb lock system does not occur.

The Pentagon comment was made after nervous reaction over possible atom bomb accidents had mounted after the Florence incident. Congress members complained at home. In England, questions in the House of Commons brought from Prime Minister Macmillan a statement that "new arrangements" had been made to prevent repetition of accidents of this type.

The Pentagon so far has declined to amplify either its own terse reference to "interim measures" or Macmillan's mention of "new arrangements."

However, it is understood that Strategic Air Command bombers now taking off from American and overseas bases have nuclear weapons so firmly attached that wrenches and screwdrivers are needed to prepare the bombs for release.

Time Is Element

Once a bomber is at altitude and cruising, a crew might have time to disconnect the safety device and clear the way for jettisoning a bomb in event of trouble. But the periods of greatest hazard in flight are during takeoff (when engine failure or loss of power can occur) and in the final phase of approach for landing.

Here there would be no time for the air crew to unfasten safety devices and rid the plane of its TNT trigger for the nuclear bomb. The airmen would have to ride the plane—and their luck—to a landing.

Money Bill Awaits

President's Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise $2,861,008,793 money bill, including an extra 250 million dollars for soil bank payments, awaits President Eisenhower's signature.

The bill, providing money for a number of federal agencies, was passed by voice vote in both the Senate and House yesterday after a conference committee ironed out differences between the two chambers. Both houses had passed it earlier in different form.

Most of the money, $2,300,000,000, is earmarked to reimburse the Commodity Credit Corp. for losses on crop support programs.

The extra soil bank money increases to 750 million dollars the amount available this year to pay farmers for taking land out of crops in surplus supply.

The bill also provides an additional $1,100,000 to boost to $13,445,000 the amount available for the U. S. exhibit at the Brussels World Fair opening next month.

Science Progresses

Doctors Closer To Antibiotic Against Cancer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Reporter

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Scientists are coming closer to an antibiotic against cancer.

Their search began long ago when doctors noticed that a few cancer patients were actually cured when they had a serious bacterial disease, erysipelas. The erysipelas germs were producing a chemical—an antibiotic—that fought against the cancer. Antibiotic means a chemical or drug produced by living organisms. Penicillin and streptomycin are made by tiny molds. They're effective against many kinds of germs, but not against cancers.

Describe New Step

New steps toward the cancer antibiotics were described today to an American Cancer Society tour for science writers of major U. S. research centers.

Certain bacteria, including erysipelas germs, produce an antibiotic known as a polysaccharide, a complex sugar. These chemicals have had some temporary successes against human cancers. But a drawback is they're quite poisonous or damaging themselves.

But now several new ones have been found which apparently have no bad effects at all, said Drs. Helga Francis Havas and A. J. Donnelly of the Institute for Cancer Research here.

These were developed in a laboratory search of mixed products from various combinations of bacteria, and tests of 126 preparations in more than 10,000 mice. Some cause complete disappearance of two-thirds of the cancers planted artificially in mice. But they don't do much against natural or spontaneous cancers in mice, the scientists said.

No Definite Effects

Tested so far on 10 humans with far advanced cancer, the new chemicals have not yet shown any definite, measurable effects, they said. But they are free from bad or damaging effects.

Development of similar antibiotics from ordinary baker's yeast and yeast-like fungi was reported by Dr. Irene Corey Diller and Z. T. Mankowski of the same institute.

In another report, Dr. Irene Koprowski, pathologist of the Hanemann Medical College, told of producing cancers in mucous membranes for the first time by painting them with tobacco tars.

She produced cancers this way in the cervical or womb tissue of mice. This is tissue similar to that lining the lungs. The tars had to be painted on five times a week for 10 months.

No Direct Evidence

Dr. Koprowski said "there's no direct evidence that lung cancer may be induced by cigarette smoke" from studies of the smoke's effect on the mucous membranes of animals' lungs.

She said the cancers she produced offered a technique for studying changes as tissues become cancerous, and perhaps for judging the effects of drugs used to combat such cancers.
